FIGHTING FOR MORE TIME.

What Chairman Maffitt's Latest Ukase Really Means.

EX-GOV. FRANCIS' PLAN.

He Wants Delay Until He Can Get the Gold Bugs Fixed for a Fight With the Aid of Imported Talent.

The plan of the gold bugs now is delay. That is what Chairman Maffitt's letter to the county committeemen means.

When Chairman Maffitt told Committeeman Farris at the Laclede Hotel June 2 that he would call a meeting of the committee on the request of the Chairmen of a majority of the County Committees of the State he may have intended to do it. When he walked out from the consultation and met the reporters and told them that he had told Mr. Farris—and would repeat it to them—that he had agreed to call a meeting of the committee upon the request of the majority of the Chairmen of the County Committees, and that he would vote for a convention if the meeting was called, he may not have intended to do something else. And when he told M. K. Brown, Chairman of the Jackson County Committee, the same thing he may have believed that he would do it.

But he will not. Under pressure from ex-Gov. Francis he has taken the back track and is now trying just as earnestly as before to defeat or postpone a convention.

In the belief that Mr. Maffitt would do what he said he would do—that his word in a political agreement was as good as his promise in a business transaction—Mr. Farris and committeemen representing counties which gave nearly 20,000 Democratic majority went ahead at the Planters' Hotel and made arrangements to secure the signatures of the Chairmen of the County Committees and have them forwarded to Mr. Maffitt. He has received requests from many counties already. But now, in his ukase of Tuesday, June 25, he decrees that another plan must be adopted, and formulates a new set of regulations which the Democrats of the State must comply with.

It all means delay.

When the Chairman of the State Central Committee went to see Mr. Farris at the Laclede, June 2, he was mistaken in two things. He had been told that Mr. Farris was making more of a talk than he had documents to back it with, and that he would find that he did not have the requests that he had announced he had. But Mr. Farris had the papers with him, to Mr. Maffitt's great surprise. His most serious error, though, was in attempting to wade in political waters without the support of Mr. D. R. Francis. He fell down and got wet all over.

As soon as it was announced that Mr. Maffitt had agreed to call a meeting at the request of the majority of the Chairmen of the County Committees and that he had agreed to vote for a State Convention, there was consternation among the goldbugs. National Committeeman Grif Prather, who always goes fishing when a State election is held, came down town mad as over and hauled Maffitt like a pickpocket. He said he had no business to make the agreement and called him all sorts of fools. Francis didn't say anything publicly except that he didn't know Maffitt was going to make the agreement, and that he didn't consider that a convention was assured, anyway. If one was called he insisted that it should be held later than August 15, the time named by the County Chairmen's conference.

Francis, Prather and the gold-bugs immediately began to plot to nullify Maffitt's promise, and a plan was agreed upon which resulted in Maffitt's letter to the County Chairmen, in which he repudiates his promise to Mr. Farris and requires a majority of the members of each County Committee to request a call of the State Committee. The plan of campaign which Francis has mapped out is this:

He is working for time. All the work that has been done toward calling a State convention will now have to be done over again. Maffitt already has requests from thirty-six counties. These will go for nothing. The Chairman of each County Committee will have to call the members of his committee together again and get a request from a majority of them. If he doesn't Maffitt can declare the request irregular. All this takes time, especially in the country, and means delay.

That is what Francis wants. In the meantime he and his friends are sending letters to those committeemen who are known to be friendly to the goldbugs, urging them to oppose the call for a meeting. The goldbug machine all over the State is being oiled up, and pressure is being brought to bear upon every committeeman who can be reached, directly or indirectly. The word has gone down the line that a convention must not be held if possible to prevent it, but if one is held it must be as late as possible. Delay is the watchword.

In the meantime arrangements are being made to import Eastern talent into the State to help stifle the silver sentiment. Carlisle, Wilson, Eckels and other Administration followers are to be asked to try to reverse a lost cause in Missouri.

Francis doesn't expect to win, but he hopes to get a strong enough minority to force an equivocal declaration. He will try to repeat the tactics of the Kansas City convention, where a minority forced a modified platform and then had it telegraphed all over the country as a victory for the Cleveland machine in Missouri. Any concession that can be secured would be magnified, and the Eastern press would be informed of another Administration victory.

As showing how Chairman Maffitt changed his mind after ex-Gov. Francis got hold of him the following extracts from interview with him June 21 show how he felt then:

In the Globe-Democrat of June 21 he said: "If the majority of county chairmen notify me officially that they want another meeting of the committee to call a convention I will immediately call such a gathering and will go even further by voting for a convention. Though I represent a district that is not favorable to the free coinage of silver, I will vote for a convention when the majority of the county chairmen so declare themselves."

In the Post-Dispatch of June 21 he said: "I believe that there will be a convention and I will vote for one if a majority of the chairmen of the county committees ask for it. It has been urged upon me that my district is against a convention. That may be true. But if a majority of the Democrats of the State want it I will not stand in the way."

Now Francis, through Maffitt, is playing battledoor and shuttlecock with the Democracy of the State. He is playing the "now you see it, and now you don't" game. At one time he doles out a few crumbs just by way of encouragement, leads on the counties to hope that at last something definite has been accomplished, and then another trick is turned, and the work must be begun all over again.

Mr. Maffitt is reported to have told a friend a few days ago that he was sorry that he had ever made the promise to Mr. Farris, but as long as he had made it he would have to vote for a convention if a committee meeting was called. He added, however, that they would delay holding a committee meeting as long as possible, and that was the purpose of his letter.

While Postmaster Carlisle is in Washington on official business it is said that he will mix a little politics with it, and will impress upon Postmaster General Wilson and the authorities the crying need of a few good speeches in Missouri. Mr. Carlisle is in favor of a fight, and he will impress his views on the Administration.

Among the local politicians, Maffitt's letter is accepted as a dodge to put off a meeting of the committee and, if possible, avoid one, and the opinion is generally expressed that Mr. Farris and the friends of free silver should refuse to stand being juggled with much longer.

FROM NORTHEAST MISSOURI.

Comes a Cry for Recognition in the Coming Gubernatorial Struggle.

Ex-Senator D. A. Ball of Pike County is in the city, and he brings with him a new suggestion for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Senator Ball's candidate is Judge Andrew Ellison of Adair County. "Northeast Missouri," said he, "is entitled to the nomination and she ought to have it. Besides, there is no abler statesman, more upright Judge nor better Democrat in Missouri than Judge Ellison. He has never mixed in factional fights and would be satisfactory to all elements of the party. There is nothing the matter with Judge Ellison."

Incidentally Senator Ball characterized Chairman Maffitt's letter as a trick to avoid doing anything. He believed that Mr. Farris, having taken the lead in the matter, should call a meeting of the County Committeemen and go ahead without waiting on the State Committee, as Mr. Maffitt's actions clearly indicated that nothing was to be expected from him.

ELECTION COMMISSIONERS.

Geo. P. Weinbrenner Is Said to Be Mayor Walbridge's Pick.

Gov. Stone, it is said, will not appoint Election Commissioners until the latter part of August or the first of September, and Mayor Walbridge can not make his selection until the Governor appoints. It is said, however, that while the Mayor's formal announcement may be delayed, he has already made his choice, and that the making out of the papers will be a mere formality. George P. Weinbrenner is the man generally considered to be slated for the place.

He is Superintendent of the Hoyt Metal Company and a politician of influence in the Twenty-eighth Ward. It was he who was largely instrumental in beating John A. Gurney. He is said to be as near the Mayor as almost anybody in the city, and is credited with having much to do with the appointment of Chief Swingley.

It is said also that while Filley is not expecting to be called into consultation on any of the municipal appointments, the appointment would be as unobjectionable to him as anybody that Mayor Walbridge would be likely to select. The Mayor is not picking out men to please the old man now, because he understands thoroughly that his gubernatorial ambition is not going to receive any assistance from Beaumont or Filley.

In connection with the Democratic appointments it has leaked out that a quiet fight is being made against the appointment of Recorder Voters Higgins, and his friends are taking steps to counteract it. Lieut.-Gov. O'Meara made a trip to Jefferson City a few days ago. His purpose, it is rumored, was to see Gov. Stone, and dispel reports which are said to have been repeated to the Governor to the detriment of the Recorder of Voters. Tom Barry is making a quiet canvass for the place. Gov. Stone has given no intimation of what he intends to do, but it is certain that Higgins' friends have been unusually active within the past few days.

Sentiment in Indiana.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Gov. Matthews of Indiana in this city. He said to-day: "We do not have a State election until next year. There is a strong silver sentiment in the southern counties of Indiana among the Democrats, but the regular Democratic State Committee will not, I imagine, regard any request for a State convention to listen to the silver men. The Democrats of Indiana are going slow but sure. The State has been burdened by a Republican Legislature, whose acts have been very severely criticised by the people. Of course I am not in the confidence of ex-President Harrison and the Republicans of the State, but the Democrats and Republicans both profess to believe that Gen. Harrison will be the candidate of his party for President next year.

THEY MUST ASK AGAIN.

And Chairman Maffitt Gives County Chairmen a Form for Their Requests.

The purpose of D. R. Francis' circular, issued by Chairman Maffitt, of which an exact copy is given here, is apparent. It means to cause a delay in the expression of the will of the majority of the Democrats of Missouri. It was issued after seventy-three County Chairmen had already expressed the wishes of their constituents for a convention. With no possible result except to delay the fulfillment of these wishes these Chairmen are again called upon to give an expression in the form in which it has pleased the Chairman's chief to design.

BAD TOM SMITH'S CAREER CLOSED.

The Kentucky Desperado Dies on the Scaffold.

THOUSANDS OF SPECTATORS.

The Desperate Criminal Made a Long Speech Before the Trap Was Sprung.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

JACKSON, Ky., June 28.—Early this morning this town was crowded with people to witness the execution of "Bad Tom" Smith to-day for the assassination of Dr. Rader several months ago. The people came many miles across the rough mountain roads in their primitive ox wagons and camped in the outskirts of the town, so as to be on hand early for the hanging.

At 7 o'clock Smith ate a hearty breakfast of chicken, fresh pork and potatoes, and at 8 o'clock a strange procession started from the jail. It was composed of several Methodist preachers, a heavy armed guard with Smith handcuffed in the center and several thousand people following. The procession marched to the Kentucky River, three miles away, singing and shouting all the time. The river was full of boats crowded with people. The banks and the pontoon bridge were black with spectators, and before that crowd Smith was led into the water and baptised. Then the procession was reformed and returned with Smith to the jail, singing and shouting all along the route.

The "Bad Tom Smith Flyer," an excursion train from Lexington to Jackson through the mountains, arrived at Jackson at 11 a. m., bringing in a crowd of 1,800 people to the execution, which Sheriff Combs had promised to delay until their arrival.

Smith sent a telegram this morning to Gov. Brown at Frankfort as follows:

"DEAR GOV. BROWN—I would like a few days longer to live, as I am an orphan boy and have no friends."

By noon he got a telegram from the Governor, who stated that heretofore he had refused to interfere, and saw no grounds to now change his mind.

Smith was the acknowledged leader of the French forces in the famous French-Eversole feud of Perry County. He planned nearly all the assassinations that marked that bloody and cowardly war, and in many instances he was foremost in executing these assassinations. The story of the many battles and assassinations, growing out of this vendetta have been published many times. After leaving Perry County Smith went to Breathitt. Last September he went into Jackson one afternoon and began to try to run the town. When Marshal H. C. Hurst, Jr., and his deputy, Samuel Mans, went to arrest him, he and several of his chums opened fire on the officers. They returned the fire promptly, the bullet from Marshal Hurst's pistol striking Smith's left arm and shattering the bone into splinters. It also severed an artery and Smith came very near bleeding to death. This was the first and only time he was ever wounded.

A few weeks before this episode he had become acquainted with Mrs. Katherine McQuinn, whose lunatic husband is incarcerated in the asylum at Lexington. She owned a farm on Quicksand Creek, about four miles from Jackson, and Smith went there and lived with her in open adultery. In February of this year Smith conceived the idea that Dr. J. E. Rader carried a large sum of money on his person. In order to get this money he told Dr. Rader that he was subject to fits and that he wanted the doctor to go out to Mrs. McQuinn's with him and watch his symptoms, so that he might know how to treat the case. Rader went out on the 4th of February and the next morning his dead body was found on the floor of the McQuinn house with a bullet hole through his heart.

Both Smith and Mrs. McQuinn were arrested and tried for the crime. The people of Breathitt County had experienced a great deal of trouble on account of the French-Eversole war; being themselves law-abiding citizens, both of the accused were quickly convicted for Dr. Rader's murder. Mrs. McQuinn testified that Smith assassinated Rader while he slept, and he testified that Mrs. McQuinn shot him. It seems that each jury believed their testimony, for the twelve men who tried Smith were only three minutes in deciding that he was guilty and his punishment should be death, while the jury that tried Mrs. McQuinn was out but a few minutes until it returned a verdict of guilty and fixed her punishment at imprisonment for life.

SUED A CHURCH.

Non-Payment of a Contractor's Bill Alleged.

Austin E. Cook sued the Hyde Park Congregational Church for $5,501.76, claimed to be due on a contract for $15,985.75 to build a house of worship for the defendant.

BOY LIFE-SAVER.

Fourteen-Year-Old Francis Maher Rescues a Playmate.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Francis Maher is 14 years old and knows how to swim. His father is a life-saver and has taught Francis what to do for drowning people. Yesterday when 7-year-old George Gorman fell into the North River Maher, at play near by, dived after and saved him, after a struggle, in which he punched Gorman soundly in the face to keep him from dragging him under.

FILIBUSTERS OVERHAULED.

The Brig Pearl Run Down by the British Warship Tartar.

NEW YORK, June 28.—A cable to The World from Kingston, Jamaica, says: The brig Pearl, from New York, was seized yesterday at Port Morant and taken possession of by Cuban filibusters. The bark was chased by the British warship Tartar, which compelled the filibusters to disembark. The tug George W. Childs of Philadelphia, with filibusters on board, escaped.

PRINCIPALS IN LUCK.

The School Board Decides to Let Their Salaries Alone.

The Teachers Committee of the School Board held a special meeting last night. Nothing was done with regard to promotions and transfers of teachers, that matter being laid over until the next meeting of the committee, July 5. The resignation of Walter H. Wilcox, Principal of the Marquette School, was accepted. The markings of teachers by principals were discussed at length, and it was decided that principals report on their teachers to the committee twice a year—in October and February. It was also decided that when a principal is transferred or promoted he cannot take his head assistant with him, which has been the custom generally.

It was recommended that the schedule of salaries for principals in the suburban schools remain as in 1894-95, and this disposes of the vexatious question which bothered Miss Ludlow and other suburban teachers, who otherwise would have found themselves with a hole in their pockets to the tune of from $400 to $600.

DIAMONDS ALL THE RAGE.

The Kids in the City Have Adopted a Dazzling New Fad.

Have you noticed that all the little folks are wearing diamonds now? They're all the rage, and there isn't a kid in town that don't sport from two to half a dozen rings, breastpins and ear drops. Some of them are as big as the end of your finger.

If you stroll in any down town section you will see more scintillating gems in the ears and on the fingers of the youngsters there than you could see at a dozen soirees of the Four Hundred in Vandeventer or Westmoreland places.

How comes it, you ask, that these little tots have such jewelry. Why, it's the reigning fad among the children nowadays. They catch lightning bugs and tie them to their fingers and ears with strings. They call them "diamonds," and some of them cut a mighty wide swath with their new-fangled jewelry.

An embryo Senator, aged 6, and a future Julia Marlowe, aged 4, strolled into Broadway from Biddle street last night. He had a big sparkler on each hand and she was bedecked with a full set of ear rings, breastpin and finger rings that looked like incandescent lights. They strolled along, hand in hand, supremely happy and apparently completely oblivious to the attention they were attracting.

BEATEN BY FEMALE TRAMPS.

Two Women Knock Down and Drag Off a Young Man at Buffalo Gap.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO GAP, Mo., June 28.—Two rather pretty female tramps have been living lately in an abandoned house near the bridge which spans the little stream at this place. On Wednesday evening as two young men of Buffalo Gap were crossing the bridge, these two girls slipped up behind them and beat one over the head with a club, dragging him off to the old house. The other young man made his escape with his coat badly torn. He told his story and a party went at once to the house, where they found the young man in a somewhat dazed condition. The girls had fled, and he could not tell in what direction. A posse is now looking for them.

Abandoned Her Babe.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Mrs. Annie Stuerach, a homeless and deserted wife, abandoned her 5-months-old baby early yesterday morning. Patrolman Burke arrested her and at Eldridge Street Station-house Acting Captain Sheehan had to send for food, as she was fainting from starvation. She was held for trial.

NEW CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL.

Its Location Will Be on Lindell, Between Newstead and Taylor.

DEAL NOW NEARLY CLOSED.

An Historic Site, Long the Subject of Litigation, for the Magnificent Structure Contemplated.

The new Catholic Cathedral which Archbishop Kain will built at a cost of $1,000,000 will be located on the block bounded by Lindell, Taylor, Newstead and Maryland avenues. Negotiations that have been pending for some time are now practically closed, and it can be definitely stated that the new Cathedral will be located on the site mentioned.

At 10 o'clock this morning James M. Lewis, the well-known attorney-at-law, placed on record a warranty deed from the Connecticut Life Insurance Co. to John B. Henderson, to block 46 of Peter Lindell's second addition, being the whole block bounded north by Maryland avenue, on the east by Newstead avenue, on the south by Lindell boulevard and on the west by Taylor avenue. The consideration in the deed is $151,000. In addition thereto Gen. Henderson gave other property of the value of $20,000.

Gen. Henderson purchased this property from the insurance company one month ago, and the sale was mentioned exclusively in the Post-Dispatch at the time. The deed was not recorded until this morning.

The negotiations for the sale of this property to the Catholic Archdiocese of St. Louis was conducted by the Anderson-Wade Realty Co. While it is not admitted by all parties concerned that the sale to the church has been consummated, yet Fenton J. Wade is now in the East, and it is understood his trip was made for the express purpose of formally closing the sale with Gen. Henderson, according to the terms that have been agreed upon by both sides.

The consideration which the Catholic church pays for the entire block is said to be in the neighborhood of $200,000, which will give Gen. Henderson a profit of at least $20,000 on the deal.

The site is one of the most magnificent for church purposes that can be found in St. Louis. The property has a frontage of 1,023 feet on Lindell boulevard, the same frontage on Maryland avenue, with a depth of 446 feet from Taylor to Newstead avenue. An alley, twenty feet wide, now runs east and west through the block, but it is to be closed.

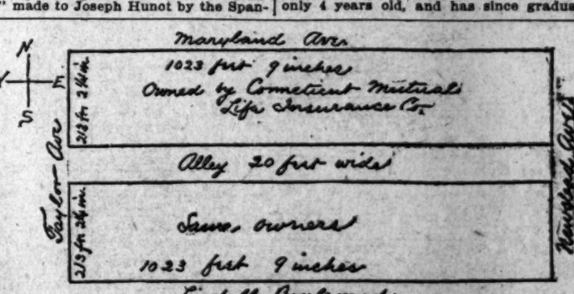

Mr. Anderson, of the firm of Anderson-Wade, refused to talk about the sale, giving as an excuse that the negotiations were not entirely completed. Archbishop Kain is out of the city, and no information could be obtained from that source. But from other reliable authority it is known that the sale to the church authorities has been practically made according to terms satisfactory to both sides, and that the only work remaining unfinished is the formal closing of the deal by the filing of the papers.

The property is purchased by the Catholic Archdiocese of St. Louis, but will be held under the control of Archbishop Kain as trustee.

It is the plan, it is said, to erect the Cathedral with its front on Lindell boulevard.

Block 46 of Peter Lindell's second addition, together with the block lying west on which the old Dejmonico resort flourished up to a few years ago, became famous through a long litigation between the Hammond and the Lindell heirs and the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. The case dragged through the lower courts and on to the State Supreme Court, and was finally decided in favor of the Lindell heirs in the United States Supreme Court.

This property's interesting history runs back to the days of Spanish supremacy in the Mississippi valley. This property was located under and by virtue of the New Madrid certificate No. 161, issued by Frederick Bates, Recorder of Land Titles in the Missouri Territory, on August 12, 1816, to Joseph Hunot or his legal representatives. This New Madrid certificate was predicated upon a Spanish grant known as a "headright," made to Joseph Hunot by the Spanish Government in 1802. Hunot deeded the property to Joseph Vandenbenden, and the latter deeded it to Rufus Easton in 1815. In 1811 an earthquake injured the lands, and the property was relocated and surveyed, and a plat was made in 1819.

SITE OF THE NEW CATHEDRAL.

Rufus Easton and wife deeded the 234 acres of this land to William Stokes in 1819, and it was rented as being "part of a location of 480 acres made by virtue of a New Madrid certificate issued by the Recorder of Land Titles for the territory of Missouri in the name of Joseph Hunot," and which by several transfers had come into the possession of Rufus Easton. But on Sept. 29, 1823, Rufus Easton, by his deed of that date, in which it is recited that he had previously, on Sept. 3, 1818, executed his title bond to Samuel Hammond and James J. Wilkinson for the same land described in the said deed, conveyed to Samuel Hammond, in pursuance to said bond, 240 acres of land, the land being described as the whole of the tract of 480 acres, "except 234 acres of land of the tract conveyed to William H. Ashley in 1818," meaning William Stokes instead of William Ashley.

Hammond took possession of this land conveyed to him by Easton, and occupied it until the fall of 1823, when it was sold at Sheriff's sale on a judgment in favor of Richard Relfe, Beverly Chew and Mary Clark. At this sale Relfe and Chew were the highest bidders and bought in the land, and secured a deed for it. Hammond surrendered possession of the land. Relfe and Chew sold it to Peter Lindell in 1826.

In the meantime the title held by William Stokes in the Hunot location was sold at United States Marshal's sale under judgment and execution, and was purchased at this sale, which was in 1825, by John O'Fallon, who transferred it to Peter Lindell. This now placed Lindell in possession of all the tracts of land in the Hunot location. Lindell, however, also purchased a school tract of this land.

Peter Lindell died intestate in [illegible] and his numerous heirs took possession of the land. Partition of the lands was made between Lindell and the heirs in 1863, and the tract divided into 100 lots and filed as an addition to the City of St. Louis.

In this partition of the lands among the Lindell heirs, block 46, comprising about 11 acres, was assigned to Mrs. Logan D. Dameron, who having transferred the same by deed, the title thereof finally became vested by mesne conveyances in the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. This is the block now purchased by the Catholic Church for a cathedral site.

Block 48, containing 11 acres, was assigned to Ann E. Gordon, and by various transfers finally passed into the hands of the Christian Brothers.

The long litigation over this land was begun by the Hammond heirs in 1873, when Edward C. Smith and J. D. L. Morrison claimed that there was a defect in the title of the Lindell heirs arising out of the Sheriff's sale of 1823. Smith and Morrison hunted up all the Hammond heirs in Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee, secured deeds from them and filed the deeds in St. Louis County. Then the long legal fight for possession of the lands was begun against the Lindell heirs. After nearly twenty years of litigation the case was decided in favor of the Lindell heirs by the United States Supreme Court.

Gen. John B. Henderson and Mr. James M. Lewis were the attorneys for the Lindell heirs. The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., it appears, loaned money to one of the Lindell heirs and took a mortgage on block 46 as security. This mortgage was foreclosed, and the insurance company obtained possession. It is said that Gen. Henderson's fee in the legal fight was almost as large as the price he paid for block 46.

WEDDED ON A TRAIN.

How a Missouri Couple Outwitted Objecting Parents.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

LUDLOW, Mo., June 28.—Mr. Dell Jones, a dry goods clerk of this place, and Miss Mamie Price, daughter of John Price, a well-to-do farmer living near Dawn, were married yesterday evening on the westbound passenger train between Ludlow and Dawn while the train was running at full speed, Justice Wiley Miller of Ludlow performing the ceremony. In this way the couple managed to avoid the interference of the lady's parents, who objected to the match.

NEW YORK DEMOCRACY.

Resolutions on the Currency Adopted by the County Committee.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The first meeting of the full County Committee of the New York State Democracy since the election of last November was held last night at Cooper Union. It was a sort of "rally" to hear a discussion of the free silver question by President Charles S. Fairchild, John Dewitt Warner and James P. Archibald. The following resolutions were adopted:

1. We condemn the legislation which for a generation has forced upon us an unsound currency from the fiat legal tender greenback to the depreciated silver by which of late our industries have been paralyzed.

2. That we denounce as undemocratic governmental interference with the standard of values which commerce has adopted. We brand as dishonest the surely futile attempt to give forced circulation to anything or dictate the rate on which metal shall be coined as compared with another.

3. That we can tolerate no compromise with any proposal to debase the currency of commerce in which wages are paid and the savings of which have been invested in the belief that equally good money would be paid when the investments should become due.

4. That we demand of Congress such modification or repeal of our present laws as shall permit our people to provide themselves with a safe and elastic bank note currency, thus paving the way for both greenback retirement and the relief of the United States Treasury from all responsibilities not involved in its legitimate functions—the collection and disbursement of Federal revenues.

A CHILD'S PECULIAR AILMENT.

Ossification Has Caused a Loss of the Powers of Locomotion and Speech.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., June 28.—A remarkable case has developed here in the 10-year-old daughter of Fred Ispwell, a well-to-do farmer. The child ceased to grow when only 4 years old, and has since gradually lost the powers of speech and locomotion, and never laughs. Hot baths and nutritious food, prescribed by the family physician, have failed, and now the little girl looks like an old woman, although she is as small as a 4-year-old, and weighs less than she did then. Her eyes retain their natural brightness and appear to be always laughing.

Of late the lower limbs and spine have began to grow weaker, and the child has to be carried around. There is no evidence of pain.

IN A BAD PLIGHT.

Unexpected Turn in the Nickells Divorce Case.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 28.—A Fargo (N. D.) special to the Pioneer Press says: The celebrated Nickells divorce case, tried before Judge Lander at Wahpeton last fall and appealed to the Supreme Court, has been decided by that body and a rehearing granted. Nickells was from Kansas City, and is said to have become infatuated with a Minneapolis woman named Graham. The two went to Wahpeton, where Nickells secured a decree and later married Mrs. Graham. Mrs. Nickells asked for a rehearing on the ground that she had been illegally thrown out of the case by her attorneys, who withdrew her answer and allowed the case to go by default because of a misunderstanding over fees. Judge Cross rendered the decision, and says a rehearing has been granted because an injustice was done the defendant by the withdrawal of the answer. The decision places Nickells and his new wife in an embarrassing position.

COBRERO DIED FROM A BLOW.

A Fractured Bone Caused Hemorrhage of the Brain.

WAS IT MURDER OR SUICIDE?

The Fatal Jar May Have Been Received in the Ambulance En Route to the Dispensary.

Joaquin Cobrero's death is the biggest puzzle the Police Department has had to tackle in years. Since he was removed from T. W. Cooper's lodging-house at 1137 Washington avenue Tuesday evening to die an hour later at the City Hospital they have been completely at sea as to the cause of death.

The condition of the man when found pointed as strongly to murder as to suicide. The post-mortem examination showed that the man had died of hemorrhage of the brain, due to the fracture of a bone of the base of the skull caused by a blow over the right eye. Was the blow murderous or accidental? The testimony at the inquest threw no light on the point.

Then there was a whitish substance found in a whisky glass in the dead man's room, as well as a white powder in a blue paper on the floor.

Neither the powder or the sediment have as yet been analyzed and the question of suicide remains unsolved.

Still another peculiar feature enters the case. Dr. Ehrmann, who was called in by the Coopers when the man was found in a dying condition, denies that he diagnosed the case as morphine poisoning, and at the inquest testified positively that there was no contusion or abrasion on the man's face or head. The testimony of the Coopers and their lodgers sustain Dr. Ehrmann in this.

There was a contusion when Cobrero was examined by Dr. Lippe at the Dispensary. At the postmortem it was discovered that a small bone at the center of the base of the skull had been fractured, and this had caused hemorrhage of the brain and congestion. The bone was greatly diseased, and, according to Dr. Wolfert, who performed the postmortem, was in such a condition that a slight jar upon any portion of the head would have broken it.

The only evidence of such a jar was a contusion of the skin over the left eye. It was rather extensive, but the bone beneath was intact. tA one side of the contusion was a slight abrasion, which had not yet been covered by a scab. According to Dr. Wolfert and Coroner Walt, this contusion was quite fresh, and could hardly have been received longer than a few hours before death.

Did Cobrero receive the jolt that caused this mortal contusion on his way from the house to the dispensary or in the city ambulance?

The whole case is a terrible jumble. City Hospital Superintendent Sutter's delay in notifying the police and Coroner until five hours after Cobrero's death is a great measure responsible for this. When Capt. Peter Joyce and Special Officer Burke called at the hospital Thursday morning Superintendent Sutter refused to allow them to see the body, and was unwilling to give out any information until the inquest.

At the inquest Friday morning the testimony of the Coopers and their lodgers and Dr. Ehrmann was identical with their statements in the press yesterday.

One of the witnesses, Geo. Gosnell, 1119 Pine street, told a Post-Dispatch reporter before the inquest that he had known the deceased for ten years, most of the time in Fresno, Cal. Cobrero kept a saloon there. He always had plenty of money then, and wore handsome jewelry. He had a woman with him then, presumably his wife. This was many years ago. According to Gosnell, the deceased was a Mexican, but claimed to be a Spaniard. He also kept a saloon in Basalia, Cal., and at other places in California.

Before the close of the inquest evidence came out that may clear up the immediate cause of Cobrero's death. John Bushard and Burt Sweinhart testified that when Cobrero was taken from 1137 Washington avenue to die a few hours later at the City Hospital, he was roughly handled by the ambulance men. After they had reached the sidewalk with the stretcher and the man upon it, "it was thrown into the ambulance like the man was a hog," said Burt Sweinhart, "and his head struck the end of the wagon violently."

These facts caused Coroner Walt to believe it probable that the alleged shock received in the wagon caused death. He accordingly adjourned the inquest until 9 a. m. Saturday, and requested the police to ascertain who were the men on the ambulance and to require them to appear before him Saturday.

The contents of the man's stomach have also been sent to City Chemist Teichmann for analysis.

OUR CHALLENGE TO SPAIN.

Significance of Consul Williams' Return to Cuba.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—Cuban news received here is ominous. Nobody can tell at what point the political volcano will burst forth.

Senor Depuy de Lome evidently has reasons for concern over the Cuban situation. If reports are correct, it is plain why Consul-General Williams is hurriedly sent back to Havana. It is said that all the arrangements for proclaiming the Republic of Free Cuba were made some time ago. The leaders were only waiting the arrival of their chiefs and delegates from other sections. Whether the programme of the Libre (Free Cuba) party was laid before President Cleveland and Secretary Olney recently—about the time Consul-General Williams was summoned to Washington for consultation—is not stated. But from official sources comes the declaration that a crisis is at hand.

The Spaniards in Washington and Havana were appalled when they learned that Mr. Williams was ordered to Cuba at the personal request of President Cleveland. And it means much. The significance of the move is that at this critical period it amounts to a challenge to Spain. It means the day for flinging American citizens into dungeons is past.

Already Spaniards are suspicious. They begin to suspect that the big corporations which have sent millionaires to the United States Senate and assisted statesmen into the White House have a very large finger in the Cuban pie. It begins to dawn upon them that American trusts which have menaced the American Government may, after all, be at the bottom of this Cuban revolution.

The island is in a condition of starvation. Fresh meat is a luxury; ice, even for the sick and wounded, is seldom obtained at any price; and in the districts now under martial law there is a scarcity of bread.

The Mora claim in creating bitterness among Americans in Washington. Officials cannot understand why the Spanish Government still neglects paying this long overdue claim. Adverse comment is heard everywhere, in hotels, clubs and Government offices.

Meanwhile the Cubans are grinding swords and shipping guns. They expect the yellow fever to do the rest.

The Boss Barbers say the saloons must close on Sunday as well as the shops, and you may soon have to resort to this sort of thing to get a drink.

ALIMONY AND SUNDAY SHAVES.

Barber Hirth Thinks the New Law Shaves Incomes.

USED TO RUN A POKER GAME.

Troubles of the Tonsorial Artist and His Wife Over John Rodel up in Judge Dillon's Court.

"Billy" Hirth, the barber at 2921 Arsenal street, whose trouble with his wife, Caroline, on account of the discovery of a neighbor, said to be John Rodel, Jr., behind the door, caused a public scene one Sunday, was examined in Judge Dillon's court Friday as to his income, so that the court could decide how much alimony "Billy" should pay his wife. Judge Dillon wanted the attorneys to try the divorce suit on its merits and settle the question of the custody of the children, but the attorneys said they were not ready. Mrs. Hirth said that before her husband drove her from home she had recourse to his books and knew that he took in $75 a week and had only $8 a week expenses.

Hirth said his net income was $15 a week, and his attorney, John I. Martin, made the most of the barber Sunday closing law. He drew Hirth out on this point and he said he lost $20 worth of business by being obliged to close shop on Sunday. Attorney Virgil Rule for the defendant, Mrs. Hirth, asked the plaintiff if persons who wanted to be shaved on Sunday did not get shaved on Saturday or Monday. Hirth said not and stated that men who were shaved on Mondays, Thursdays and Sundays now get shaved on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Hirth was asked how much he made out of a "little game" he ran on Sunday. He denied that he ran a game at present, but admitted that he used to have a game of poker in his shop on Sunday, and got a small "rake-off," besides what he won, as he said he is a good player. He was lucky enough never to have been raided by the police. By degrees the attorneys approached the question of Mrs. Hirth's character, which the Judge had warned them to let alone unless they went into it fully in order to decide who should have the children. Mr. Martin and Mr. Rule said they were ready to go into Mrs. Hirth's character, but when Mr. Rule brought forward five witnesses to testify to the defendant's good name, Mr. Martin wanted to withdraw. Then Judge Dillon gave him a sharp talking to.

Hirth said that since his wife fell in love with John Rodel, Jr., last September, she neglected her children and watched every car for his home-coming. He told of one occasion when the defendant went to Tower Grove Park and on her return the little girl said, "We saw John out there." This provoked Mrs. Hirth, the plaintiff said, and she struck the child, knocking her under the table.

Hirth admitted that he never told Rodel to stay away and shaved him regularly, although he alleged the defendant used to sit with him on the garden bench in front of the barber shop.

Mrs. Hirth, in her cross-bill, filed a few days ago, denied all the charges made by the plaintiff and accused him of infidelity. She alleged that he ran a poker game in his barber shop, that he spread false reports about her, and gave her photograph to the newspapers.

Mrs. Martha Oldendorf, sister of Hirth, testified that the defendant used to open the family album and go into ecstacies over the picture of Rodel. "She said she adored the ground John walked on," said Mrs. Oldendorf in referring to Mrs. Hirth's alleged affection for Rodel. She said she gave Mrs. Hirth hints that trouble, perhaps a divorce, would result from her relations with Rodel, and the defendant made answer: "I am too foxy for that."

When Mrs. Oldendorf was excused from the stand the lawyers bickered as to when and how Mrs. Hirth could see the children, for the judge said emphatically that in view of the testimony offered, the father should keep them. Finally the judge made an order that the children be taken to the house of Mrs. Hirth's sister every Monday at 1 p. m., and left there until 4:30 p. m., when they are to be called for. Mrs. Hirth, who lives with her sisters, is to have the privilege of taking out the children during the time she will have the care of them. Hirth was ordered to pay her $5 a week, and to pay her attorney $75 as fees in three monthly installments.

THE FRESH WATER SUPPLY.

A Great Scheme of Government Aqueducts From Lake Huron.

CLEVELAND, O., June 28.—A gigantic scheme for supplying pure, fresh water to a number of large cities and towns has been devised by Attorney A. J. Marvin of this city.

His plan is for the Government to build a system of aqueducts from Lake Huron down through Michigan and Ohio to Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburg and St. Louis, and even on down to the coast towns in the South.

He has roughly figured the cost and believes the Government could make a profit by putting in meters and charging municipalities for the water they use. One great result would be the solving of the sewerage problem, as it would enable cities to run the sewage into the lakes and rivers without endangering health.

HAM IN THE WRONG FACE.

Pat McNero Put It in Winklemeyer's Instead of His Own.

Patrick J. McNero, a teamster, was overcome by the pangs of hunger to such an extent Thursday evening that he stole a ham from Peter Winklemeyer's lunch stand at Sixth and Market streets while the latter was inside a saloon. Winklemeyer appeared just as the thief was making off with the booty concealed under his coat. He gave chase and when within a few fet of McNero the latter turned and threw the ham in his pursuer's face, knocking him down. A policeman arrested McNero and he was fined $5 by Judge Peabody Friday.

ANOTHER SUBWAY PERMIT.

It Is Asked by the St. Louis Electric Light Co.

The St. Louis Electric Light and Power Co., through D. W. Guernsey, its President, and J. E. McKeighan, its attorney, made a special application to the Board of Public Improvements Friday morning for a permit to put in a subway for its wires from its station up to Sixth street, across on Sixth to Olive, from Sixth street on Olive to Fourth, east, and west to Twelfth street. This company in February and March made a general application and submitted maps, specifications and drawings for a complete system of subway throughout the city. The present application is special for a permit for a restricted portion at the present time, to be followed by the construction of a subway for its entire system. It does not, however, waive the former application, which is still before the board.

Mr. McKeighan, in presenting the application, called attention to sec. 2 of ordinance 12,723, which, he said, had been preserved through all the modifications and repeals of that ordinance, and it would seem to indicate a purpose to give the Board of Public Improvements the right to grant permits to go underground. He also called attention to the fact that in sec. 1 of ordinance 12,723, as well as in sec. 2, and in the ordinance now in force, the phrase "wires, tubes or cables" is used. That "tubes" were only used for underground construction, and it would seem that this, together with the language used in sec. 2, requiring the wires, tubes and cables "to be placed at such distance above or below the surface of the ground" as should be prescribed by the Board of Public Improvements, is meant to give power to the Board of Public Improvements to give permits for underground conduits.

Mr. McKeighan further called attention to the ordinance 16,894, approved Oct. 26, 1892, which requires every person, corporation or association not having previous to the passage of said ordinance accepted and complied with ordinance No. 12,723, to apply to the Municipal Assembly for authority under an ordinance.

Mr. McKeighan claimed that the St. Louis Electric Light and Power Co. had at the date of this ordinance accepted and complied with it, and that it was the only company that had, and was the only company that had paid into the city the full amount demanded by the city of 5 per cent on its gross receipts.

Mr. McKeighan suggested that this, at least, ought not to put the St. Louis Electric Light and Power Co. at a disadvantage with the other companies in obtaining permits to construct subways.

This application in no way grows out of the recent Court of Appeals decisions on the subway question. It was contemplated before the decisions were made and they do not at all affect it.

Gomez and Guerrillas.

HAVANA, June 28.—It is given out here that the loss in the engagement between the insurgents commanded by Gomez and a company of guerillas, commanded by Aguerro, was on the part of the Spaniards fourteen killed and eight wounded, while the insurgents, it is said, had nineteen killed and left on the field, while the band retired with their wounded.

THE TRUE STORY OF THAT LETTER.

And How a Few Members of the State Committee Disappeared.

BUT THEY WERE ALL HAPPY.

The Tale of the Maffitt Letter to the County Chairman Is Now Unfolded to an Interested Public.

There is a history behind that Maffitt letter to County Chairmen that all the rollymugs in Oblettyland have begun to razzle the reubs about. The Post-Dispatch gave the thing away the day after the letter came out, and now some interesting additional details are beginning to ooze to the surface.

One Joseph A. Graham, employed on the Francis morning daily, wrote the letter and Charley Maffitt's name was signed to it. This was done at the St. Louis Club, and the transaction involves the history of a scoop.

After the epistle was fixed up and all ready to be sent out a tip was telephoned to the newspaper on which the writer is employed, and a reporter went out to the St. Louis Club and got a copy of it. The letter appeared—under a scare head—the next morning with Chairman Maffitt's name signed to it, and the uninitiated thought he wrote it.

In a room at the club the little party was drawn up around a table. On the floor sat a silver-plated cooling bucket with the necks of sundry champagne bottles protruding through the cracked ice. There was a bottle on the table, and while the pen of the scribe spread the anti-free silver sentiment on the paper the remainder of the party quaffed their sparkling beverage and enthusiastically discussed the letter paragraph by paragraph, and had a high old time conjecturing with what crushing force it would fall upon Committeeman Farris, Congressman Bland and the friends of a free silver convention.

It was agreed that the paragraph about a majority of the County Committees having to sign a request for a convention, which was quoted in the interview with John H. Carroll, was a corker and would surely be a body blow. Then they all laughed, the letter was signed and the tip was telephoned down town.

Before the reporter reached the St. Louis Club, however, the select coterie of letter writers had adjourned to a quieter place, beyond the reach of those they might not care to see. But the place to which they adjourned was not so secluded that it could not be reached by telephone by a few politicians, who are onto a thing or two, who might want to communicate with them. The number of that telephone is not in the telephone directory.

It was late when the party arrived there, and they were all feeling pretty jolly. Every now and then somebody would make some reference to a particular paragraph or sentence in that letter, which would provoke hearty laughter. Orders for bottle after bottle succeeded each other in rapid succession. The libations became deep and copious, and the conviviality of the party became similar.

It was very late, or rather early, when the members of that exuberant gathering retired and the place was as quiet as a tomb until well-nigh noon, when they began to bestir themselves once more. Lunch was ordered, and in a little while the clink of glasses began to be heard once more by the fatigued pedestrians on the hot pavements outside.

All day long they remained there, and along towards night the front door opened and one by one the little party emerged from their seclusion and sauntered down the stone steps. Then the big door swung to again, the place assumed its sepulchral appearance. This is how two or three members of the State Central Committee and a few friends were lost to the world for a day and a night.

WEALTHY MEN ARRESTED.

Charged With Being the Head of a Band of Counterfeiters.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 28.—A special to the Star from Perry, O. T., says: Marshal Nix of Oklahoma received information to-day that a doctor of Cleveland, O., said to be worth $100,000, and a wealthy resident of Troy, O., had been arrested under warrants issued from indictments found by the Grand-jury here for counterfeiting and sending counterfeit goods and molds here. For five years Oklahoma has been infested with many counterfeiters, and these men are charged with being at the head of the band, furnishing all the material, it is alleged, for part of the proceeds.

HER SKULL CRUSHED.

Mamie Banks Fatally Injured by a Jealous Rival.

The City Dispensary presented a gory spectacle about 11 o'clock a. m., when the police brought in Mamie Banks of 920 Biddle street, Celia Walton, 1406 North Eleventh street, and Jennie Malcom, all colored, and all bleeding profusely from cuts and stab wounds administered by one another.

The melee occurred in the yard at 920 Biddle street and grew out of a rivalry for the affections of a dusky lover. Celia Walton was brandishing a hatchet when Mamie Banks carved a slice out of Celia's scalp with a razor. Celia retaliated by bringing the hatchet down on Mamie's head with crushing force, splitting the scalp to the bone for several inches and fracturing her skull. Jennie Malcom, in attempting to separate the combatants, received a gash on the wrist from the razor in Mamie Banks' hand, which severed the tendons.

At the Dispensary Mamie Banks' injuries were pronounced probably fatal, and she was sent to the City Hospital. The wounds of the other two were dressed, and they were returned to the Third District Station under arrest.

AMOS STEPS DOWN.

Ex-Congressman Cummings Removed by Mayor Strong.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Amos J. Cummings, the well-known ex-oCngressman and journalist, was yesterday removed by Mayor Strong from the office of Subway Commissioner and Thomas L. Hamilton, a Platt Republican, appointed as his successor. The value of the office is $5,000 per annum.

Mr. Cummings was appointed by Mayor Gilroy after his defeat for Congress last November.

When Strong succeeded Gilroy he advised the ex-Congressman that he would be retained in office on one condition. That condition was that he should not identify himself actively with Tammany Hall politics. Mr. Cummings declined to agree to this proposition, and from a mere worker in the ranks became a sachem of the Tammany Society. He was removed for "offensive partisanship."

The removal of Mr. Cummings is the last that Mayor Strong will make. On Saturday his power of removal granted by a special act of the Legislature will expire.

The Mayor said, in discussing the passing of Commissioner Cummings, for whom, by the way, he has a sincere liking personally, that he intends to recommend the abolition of the Subway Commission upon the reassembling of the Legislature. The Mayor deems it a useless feature of the municipal government.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Dr. Cyrus Edson has resigned from the Board of Health of this city to accept the editorial chair of the American Physician of Philadelphia.

Dr. Edson was a Tammany appointee and there is said to be some politics in his resignation.

SUMMER RESORT WEATHER.

The Cool Spell Predicted to Last Over Sunday.

The mercury is reaching the zero mark in Northwest Minnesota, and snow is theratened. Weather Czar Frankenfield received a telegram from St. Paul to the effect that there was a heavy frost up there.

The weather here is remarkably pleasant for June, and still there is no sign of a warm wave. Dr. Frankenfield says that there will be a little rain here Friday night.

"It will clear up before daybreak," he continued, "and fair and slightly warmer weather will prevail Saturday. I have been busy mapping out Sunday's weather. It will be a fine day from present indications.

"It is generally cooler in the East. At Chicago the lake breezes are becoming decidedly chilly. Galveston, Tex., continues in the lead as the hottest spot on the map, the mercury early Friday morning registering 80 deg."

The mercury here moved to-day as follows:

5 a. m.	68	9 a. m.	72
6 a. m.	68	10 a. m.	73
7 a. m.	68	11 a. m.	75
8 a. m.	69	12 m	76

For St. Louis and vicinity—Showers Friday night, clearing during the night or Saturday morning. Slightly warmer by Saturday evening. For Sunday fair and warmer weather is probable.

During the past twenty-four hours there were general, though mostly light showers throughout the West, in the upper lake region in the extreme East.

The temperatures have fallen slightly except in the extreme Northwest and extreme Southeast. Light frosts were reported from Bismarck and Moorhead.

The pressure is highest in the Upper Missouri Valley and a low area has appeared in Alberta. The eastward movement of this latter area will probably cause a considerable rise in temperature in this vicinity by Sunday.

FRIER STILL AT LARGE.

Jockey McDonald's Murderer Has Probably Left the City.

Henry Frier, the negro horse trainer who murdered Malcolm McDonald, also a trainer, at the Fair Grounds Wednesday afternoon by striking him on the head with a base ball bat, is still at large, and from what the police can learn, it is thought he succeeded in escaping from the city.

Early Friday morning the police were informed by Martin Diecker of 1407 Sherman street and Robert Martin, 1409 Washington avenue, that a short time after Frier dealt McDonald his deathblow they saw him go to his boarding place in company with Monroe Sawyer, a colored hostler. A few minutes later the two men came out of the house bearing Frier's trunk, which they took to Sawyer's residence, 3911 Kossuth avenue.

Frier then hurried off in the direction of the business part of town. He is known to have had about $60 in his possession, and it is thought that he headed for his home in Nashville, Tenn.

Sawyer was arrested later in the day by Detective Gallagher of the Sixth District on a charge of accessory after the crime, in that he aided the murderer to escape.

WANTS A PARDON.

Dr. Arthur Brewster Expects His Friends Will Get Him Out of Jail.

Dr. Arthur W. Brewster, who was sent to the Work-house June 10 on a charge of fraud, is keeping up his courage, with the hope that he may soon be pardoned.

The doctor's story is one of those that makes the subject of it sit and talk about the irony of fate. He came to St. Louis last January and submitted his credentials as a physician to the State Board of Health. He was a fashionably dressed man and put up at the St. Nicholas. His funds soon ran out, and he began drawing promiscuous drafts. Among his victims were Claude B. Martin, for $25; Tony Faust, for $87, and Manager Roth of the hotel for $80.

The drafts were on his father, who, he claims, is a wealthy resident of Brooklyn, N. Y., but the old gentleman refused to make the drafts good, and Brewster was arrested. He plead guilty and received a ten months' sentence. He always maintained that he meant to do no wrong and only entered the plea because he was powerless to put up a fight.

He made a number of friends before he got into trouble, and it said an effort is being made to have the young man pardoned.

MISS TURPIE'S DEATH.

Inquests Develops That She Walked to Her Own Death.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock an inquest was held upon the body of Maggie Turpie, the unfortunate forewoman employed by the Riverside Publishing Company, who, on Wednesday evening, fell through the elevator shaft at the place of her employment and was killed.

During the inquest the fact was elicited, through the testimony of several employes of the Riverside Company, that Miss Turpie unlocked the door of the elevator herself, and, probably in a fit of absent-mindedness stepped into the open shaft instead of the platform of the elevator.

Miss Turpie was 30 years old, and the support of her aged mother, whose only surviving child she was. She will be buried Saturday morning at 8:30 from St. Bridget's Church. The remains will be placed in Calvary Cemetery.

DEATHS.

KEANE—On Friday, June 27, 1895, at 4 o'clock a. m., Mary A. Keane, daughter of Frank and Mattie Keane, nee Patterson, aged 2 years and 1 month.

MADE A BLIND TRADE.

And Now Wendel Schorle Is Sorry He Did It.

Wendell Schorle used to own a carpet store at No. 4512 Easton avenue, but he declares in his suit against Amos Avery, that in an evil moment he made a blind trade with the defendant, giving him a bill of sale for the store and stock in return for land in Brentwood, St. Louis County, said to be owned by Avery. The terms of the agreement were that the bill of sale was to be null and void if the title to the property was found not to be good or not vested in Avery. Schorle alleges that Avery put the bill on record three days after the trade was made, and when he found that the title to the Brentwood property was not vested in Avery, he returned the deeds and demanded that the bill of sale be canceled. This, he alleges, Avery refused to do, and Schorle asks the court to set aside the bill of sale.

WON'T GET A NEW LICENSE.

Louis Cella's Place on Washington Avenue Must Be Closed.

CITY PROPERTY IN THE BLOCK

Comptroller Sturgeon Refuses to Sign the Petition and Thereby Hangs the Tale of Cella's Discomfiture.

Louis Cella has struck a snag in getting a renewal of his license for his saloon, known as "The Place," at Twenty-first and Washington avenue. There is an engine house at Twentieth and Washington in the same block, and Comptroller Sturgeon's signature to the petition is necessary. Col. Sturgeon refuses to sign it because of the reputation of the place.

Louis Cella was the Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates in the Seventeenth Ward at the April election. He was defeated by Hiram Lloyd. The publication of Cella's record helped to encompass his defeat. On election day a man named Ward was shot in Cella's saloon by Charles Day. Day had sworn out a warrent against a man for illegal voting and accompanied a Deputy Sheriff to the saloon to point out the man. As soon as they entered Ward and a crowd of ward heelers who were drinking there attacked them, and Day drew his pistol and fired into the crowd in self-defense.

On another occasion Lizzie Kleinschmidt, alias "Hack Lena," a notorious shoplifter, and her partner, Sam Wray, were traced to Cella's place, and Wray was arrested while in the act of handing a bolt of silk over the bar to Cella.

On still another occasion 5,000 stolen cigarettes were recovered from Cella's place.

Cella and his partner, "Texas Tom" Walsh, owned the Monte Carlo gambling house at the Madison track. They were indicted, but never brought to trial, and it was alleged they had undue influence over the Town Board. Anyway, every member of the board was afterwards convicted of malfeasance in office for failing to suppress Monte Carlo.

With these facts in view, Comptroller Sturgeon as the agent of the city, could consistently sign the petition for license.

After the shooting Cella closed his place to keep out the crowd, and when the curious pressed on the porch to learn the details of he affair, Cella came out, and with a show of virtuous indignation, said to a policeman, "Mr. Officer, clear my premises; this is election day, and my saloon is closed. It is against the law for me to open, and I want these people moved." The obliging officer promptly drove away the throng, including several reporters.

After this there was some talk of revoking Cella's license because it was clear that his saloon was open on election day in violation of law. Strange to say, in spite of the undenied facts of the shooting having taken place in the saloon, where a crowd of men were drinking, the police failed to get proof satisfactory to them that the place was open, so nothing was done.

Besides the saloon at Twenty-first and Washington avenue, Cella owns the saloon on the southwest corner of Sixth and Morgan. This place acquired notoriety as a resort for thieves, and was regarded as a "fence." Cella was arrested once on a charge of receiving stolen property, consisting of two sealskin sacques valued at $500. He acnitted having purchased them from Jack Horton, alias O'Leary, who was sent up for stealing them, but denied knowing they were stolen.

This duty rests wholly with the Comptroller. The Mayor himself cannot overrule him. In this dilemma Cella enlisted the aid of Col. Charles Comfort, his old partner in the Madison track, and said to be interested with Cella in his stable. Col. Comfort called on Col. Sturgeon Thursday. The Colonel is said to have exerted considerable influence with the Mayor in making up his slate. He was said to have practically dictated a certain proportion of the appointments. But whatever Col. Comfort's influence may amount to with Mayor Walbridge it had no effect on Col. Sturgeon. He stood firm in refusing to sign Cella's ptition for license. He referred Cella and Comfort to Excise Commissioner Bell, telling them the Commissioner might issue the license without his signature if he saw fi, but he resisted all persuasion to affix hi signature.

He went to Pais, Mo., the home of his wife, to live. His father-in-law is Judge D. H. Moss, President of the National Bank of Paris, Mo.

Mr. Warner went to a grocery store at 5 o'cloc Thursday evening and bought a rope. From there he went to the river north of town, took off his coat and hat, tied one end of the rope to the root of a large tree and the other to his right foot and jumped off a skiff which he had tied to the tree. As soon as he was missed from home his brother-in-law, David H. Moss, went i search of him and found the body.

To Mr. Warner's poor health is attributed the cause of his act.

DO NOT LIKE TROUBLE.

But the Wessels Brothers Found Too Much of It.

Jacob W. Wessels, a salesman for Gerhandt Brothers, real estate agents, and his brother, Henry B., don't like trouble. They dress nicely, walk peaceably along the street and smoke their own cigarettes. But dressing well and smoking cigarettes is a practice which some people don't like to witness.

Henry Vollmer, 15 years old, don't like it, and he told the two Wessels brothers so, as they were promenading down Taylor avenue Thursday night. His expression caused trouble.

Young Vollmer was standing in the doorway of his stepfather's home, at 901 Taylor when he spied the brothers. He left the doorway and strolled on after them, relieving himself of such expressions as "Trun dat cigarette away" and "git on to de crease in his trousers," as he moved. The brothers turned fiercely on young Vollmer and began chastising him. The lad is strong and gritty, and he fought like a lion when one of the Wessels struck him. Then his stepfather, Matthew Rothkopf, came out and created a four-hand fight. Officer Fox happened to be passing in a car in the midst of the excitement, and he placed all the parties under arrest. They had cross-charges of disturbing the peace opposite their names in the Second District Police Court Friday. The case was laid over until next Tuesday.

BELL IS AT HOME.

And Now He Will Take Up the Renewal of Licenses.

Excise Commissioner Bell has returned from a month's visit to Hot Springs and Mountain Valley. The time for the renewal of licenses is at hand and he has to be on deck.

When asked when the last day of grace was for renewals, Col. Bell replied by giving the reporter a copy of a letter sent by him to John W. Howard, Secretary of the Liquor Dealers' Benevolent Association, in which he says:

"In answer to your verbal inquiry asking when the last day for filing dram-shop petitions will arrive, I will state the law requires a petition to be filed and a license obtained before a person is authorized to conduct a dram-shop. Any person conducting a dram-shop after the expiration of his license and without filing a petition, is doing so in violation of the law; and I will transmit to the Chief of Police the names of all persons who have not filed their petition before the 3d of July, with the request that they close up such places and report the same to this office."

Col. Bell says about 1,950 licenses were issued for the first half of the year, and he does not anticipate much falling off. When asked about the renewals of licenses for the dives, he replied that he should be guided by the facts and the law, but declined to go further into the matter on the ground that he had but just arrived and had not gone into it yet.

NOT DESIRABLE VISITORS.

Officers Break Up a Practice Followed Out on Easton Avenue.

A plan to colinize disreputable women out on Thirty-second street and Easton avenue was nipped in the bud by Officers Fitzgerald and Conley Thursday evening. They arrested three women, inmates of Dollie Hughes' resort on Clark avenue, in the saloon of James O'Connell at 3204 Easton avenue. Hattie Gray, Ella Howard and Eve Parker were the trio.

They were arraigned in the Second District Police Court Friday and Assistant City Attorney Dodge, because he thought there was no evidence of frequenting, allowed two to pay costs and entered a nolle prosequi in the case of the third.

Several days ago a number of prominent citizens, among them Senator Richard Lancaster, who live near O'Connell's saloon, complained that women were frequenting the place, and "bleeding" the young men in the neighborhood for drinks. The officers investigated, and claim to have found that a man known as "Cider" was bringing women from down-town to O'Connell's place, then getting a number of young men. The officers encountered this when they entered O'Connell's place Thursday night, and arrested the women.

William, alias "Buck" Kernan, proprietor of a shooting gallery at Huber's Grove, shot Albert Meyer, 18 years old, in the left eye during a picnic at his place Thursday. Young Meyer had spent all his money early in the day. In the afternoon Kernan asked him if he wanted to shoot, and Meyer responded that he had no money. "Then I'll shoot," replied Kernan, as he picked up a target rifle and levelled it at the boy. It was discharged and the bullet lodged in young Meyer's left eye. The wound is serious, although not fatal. The boy will lose his eye. Kernan was arrested by the Fourth District police.

INTERFERE WITH JUSTICE.

Methods of a Reprehensible Character at the Hospital.

DELAY IN CORONER'S CASES.

Several Untoward Instances of Late Which Have Materially Interrupted the Efforts of the Law Officers.

Because of delay at the City Hospital in reporting deaths by violence occurring there, the police authorities are being handicapped in the investigation of such cases and in the arrest of the guilty. They are complaining vigorously, and also declare that in other respects the hospital authorities are hampering them and are displaying a great absence of any desire to co-operate with the police.

The police cite the death of Joaquin Cobrero Wednesday night as one of the most glaring of the instances. Closely following it was the death of Malcolm McDonald, assaulted at the race track—and there are others.

Cobrero, according to the report finally sent to the Coroner from the hospital, was received there at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night in a comatose condition and apparently suffering from a fractured skull. Instead of the police being notified at once from the hospital, they received no word of the case until after 10 o'clock. The man died at 9:10 o'clock.

Night Chief Reedy states that upon receiving the telephone message from the City Hospital, he inquird the cause of the man's death, and the only satisfaction he could secure was that the man was dead and that it was a Coroner's case. He then ordered an officer sent to the hospital to examine the body for marks of violence. Chief Reedy states that the officer was not allowed to see the body. On this account the police were absolutely in the dark.

Thursday it was not any better. The report to the Coroner from the hospital on the case did not reach the Four Courts until late Thursday afternoon. For some reason the body was not remoevd to the Morgue until late in the afternoon, and, accordingly, it was almost 7 o'clock Thursday evening before the post-mortem, and until thea the police were almost as much in the dark as before, as to the cause of death on account of the conflicting circumstances surrounding the case.

About 12 o'clock Thursday Capt. Peter Joyce and Special Officer Burke of the Third District examined the body at the hospital, but could establish nothing by the examination. When the post-mortem finally disclosed a fracture of the skull as the cause of death, the department had, practically, to begin its work anew.

Malcolm McDonald died at the City Hospital at 7 a. m. Thursday. Five hours later the police of the Sixth District, in whose bailiwick the assault occurred, first learned of its fatal termination. When they finally learned it. George Frisom, the colored trainer who committed the assault, was miles away. When the police were first notified of the assault they were deceived as to its seriousness by the report of the physician who attended McDonald at the Fair Grounds, which was to the effect that the injury was merely a slight scalp wound.

Another case, not so recent, was the murder of John F. McKenna, the Post-office clerk, Saturday, June 15 last, at Seventh and Franklin avenue. He was removed to the City Hospital as unknown. He was supposed to be sufffering from a slight injury received in a fall caused by his condition. At the City Hospital he was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain, caused by a blow upon the head. Sunday he was identified as McKenna. Late Monday afternoon the police of the Third District were first informed of his identity and his precarious condition. By unusual exertion, mingled with some good fortune, they succeeded in arresting the man's assailant, who proved to be Jacob Goldstein. Tuesday, June 18, at 5 a. m., McKenna died.

Another instance was the death of Evelyn Brown, alias Washington, colored, who died at the City Hospital last Monday or Tuesday of a gunshot wound of the breast. Nothing was heard of her death until late in the morning of the day following. Fortunately, Rosie McNeil, her assistant, had been arrested the night the shooting occurred.

The Post-Dispatch reporter who called at the City Hospital was told by Dr. Sutter that steps have been taken by him to remedy these matters. He stated that he investigated the circumstances complained of in connection with the Cobrero case, and had severely reprimanded those at fault, as well as those responsible for the delay in the McDonald case.

Capt. Frank K. Deffrey of the Neely Zouaves, Memphis, Tenn., arrived Friday morning with one of his lieutenants and his quartermaster sergeant.

Capt. Deffrey is an old St. Louis boy and a brother of Jos. H. Deffrey of this city, one of the founders of the Pastime Club. Capt. Deffrey repaired at once to the Fair Grounds to arrange for the accommodation of his company.

The official judges of the competitive drills, as selected by Secretary of War Lamont, will be First Lieutenant W. P. Hancock, Fifth Artillery; Lieut. W. H. Johnson, Sixteenth Infantry; Lieut. Three members of the Indianapolis Light Artillery will arrive Saturday morning to arrange the camp for their battery.

The details arriving ahead of their commands will all be met at the Union Station by officers of the First Regiment and conducted to camp.

The American Tent and Awning Co. is hard at work erecting tents for the accommodation of the troops. About 200 tents will be up by Friday evening and by Saturday night the entire camp of 500 tents will be in order. They will be arranged in strict accordance with army regulations in streets, one company to a street. The cavalry will be to the right of the camp, the infantry to the left and the artillery and guns in the rear. Company officers will occupy the tents at the head of company streets. The general officers will be in front of the company streets.

The commandent of the camp will be Col. Purington, unless he should, as is possible, be called to Washington. In that event Mayor Keyes, also of Jefferson Barracks, will be in command.

Dr. John Matthews of Centenary M. E. Church, and Rev. E. S. Chappel of the Cook Avenue M. E. Church, have extended invitations through Secretary Gwynne to the troops to attend services at the respective churches both Sundays that they are here.

It is expected that most of the companies will arrive by Sunday night, and by Monday morning the camp will be complete and open to visitors.

The Citizens' Committee, of which Col. M. C. Wetmore is Chairman, has issued a strong appeal to the merchants of the city to permit the members of the National Guard in their employ to participate in the grand street parade Monday.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

To Open Locust Street.

Preparations are being made by the leading property-owners along Locust street to form an organization to be known as the Locust street street improvement Association, the chief object of which will be the opening of Locust street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. The plan is to tunnel through the Exposition Building and construct an arcade to correspond in width with the street proper.

The fact that one of the principal streets in the city is closed at one of the business corners has long been an aggravation to the property-owners. W. W. Culver, Vice-President of the Wrought Iron Range Co., and H. H. Culver, President of the Wrought Iron Range Co., and Messrs Anderson & Wade, the realty dealers, are leading the movement.

A meeting of the property owners will be held in the near future and definite action taken in the matter. There was some doubt expressed as to whether or not the walls of the Exposition Building would stand the tunnel, but Architect Legg, who built it, claims it can. The arcade will be constructed immediately to the rear of the stage in the Music Hall. There is a nave there 80 feet wide, in which there is not one foundation pier or column that would have to be removed. It is roughly estimated that the cost of the arcade will be $50,000.

To Buy the Lindell Hotel.

The deal closed recently for the leasing of the Lindell Hotel property and the changing of the management was, so it appears at present, to have been merely a preliminary arrangement to purchase the property outright. The Washington Realty Co. was incorporated in the Circuit Court Saturday, the object of the incorporation being the purchase of the Lindell Hotel. The capital stock of the company is $350,000, one-half paid up, held by the following persons: A. C. Stewart, 13,900 shares; A. L. Shapleigh, 11,300 shares; Joseph Franklin, 14,400 shares; Chas. Parsons, 7,200 shares; A. C. Stewart, trustee, 1,038 shares.

Under the new arrangement the present management of the hotel, Messrs. Howe & Chassaing, will be retired and the new management, Messrs. J. F. Donovan of St. Louis P. A. Brady of Chicago, will take hold. John Krager, Jr., of Chicago and R. E. Tommerson of St. Louis have been engaged as managers. Mr. Stewart of the Washington Realty Co. when seen, stated that the deal had not yet been closed, but that it would likely be consummated in a short time. The trustees of the Boston Ground Rent Trust own the ground.

An Acre Tract Sold.

A tract of land containing several acres, fronting on the west side of Taylor avenue, near the Frisco Railroad, was purchased Friday by Henry O'Neil for $14,975. This property is well located for manufacturing purposes, owing to the railroad facilities. Edward Mallinckrodt was the original owner of the land. Just what Mr. O'Neil intends doing with it is not known. Numerous inquiries have been made regarding West End business property by manufacturers, and realty dealers have a score of deals of that nature pending at present. The removal of the immense Barnard plant from Eleventh and Washington avenue to their new plant on the northeast corner of Laclede and Vandeventer avenues is in line with the movement of manufacturers to migrate west. It is reported that another big manufacturing building will be erected on Vandeventer avenue.

Sacred Heart Convent Property.

The sale of the lease of the old Sacred Heart City Convent property, occupying an entire block between Broadway and Sixth streets and LaSalle and Hickory streets, was ratified by the courts Thursday. Samuel Bowman bought it for $110,000. The litigation has been pending in the courts since 1887. The suit was instituted to ascertain if the institution had a legal right to dispose of the property, as the ground had been donated by John Mullanphy and it was asserted that a clear title could not be given to a purchaser of the property. The petition named some fifty defendants, chiefly heirs and legal descendants of John Mullanphy. In June, 1890, an order of sale was granted, but the heirs appealed to the Supreme Court. In 1892 the Supreme Court dismissed the case. The original order of sale stood in force, but there was no purchaser until Mr. Bowman stepped in. The lease has ninety-three years ten months to run.

NAME NOT NEEDED.

Attorney McDonald Explains an Omission From an Indictment.

Attorney Jesse H. McDonald does not think the omission of the name of the victim from the indictment against Police Officer Lee Smith will in any way invalidate the indictment.

Smith, who is charged with an unnatural crime, was indicted by the Grand-jury. Assistant Circuit Attorney Bishop agreed with Smith's attorney that the indictment was defective, owing to the omission of the names of the victims, and wanted to quash the indictment. Judge Harvey laid the case over until Saturday to give Mr. McDonald an opportunity to explain.

Mr. McDonald said to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"The name was not known to me at the moment I drew the indictment, but I should not have set it out if I had remembered the name of the boy. I knew of no reason why the name should be given in charging a crime of this nature. It is not pleaded in any of the standard works on criminal pleading that I examined, and I left it out intentionally.

"If there is any authority in this State requiring the name to be given I shall present the case to the July Grand-jury next Monday, otherwise it can rest on the indictment now pending."

Mandamusing a Justice.

S. L. Isbell, attorney for Emma Fuson, asked the Circuit Court for a writ of mandamus to compel Justice Hennessy to grant a change of venue to his client. On Wednesday, when the case was called, it turned out that the name of the defendant was a misnomer. Mr. Isbell moved to dismiss the case on that ground, which motion Justice Hennessy disregarded. Isbell's motion for a change of venue was also disregarded. He then gave notice that he would ask for a writ of mandamus. The writ is returnable June 29.

FELL AGAINST THE CURBING.—Thomas Kinney and Henry Froehlich, alias "Shoo Fly," quarreled in front of 811 North Eighth street Thursday afternoon. Kinney knocked Froehlich down. His head struck the curbstone and he was rendered unconscious. His injuries were dressed at the Dispensary and pronounced dangerous by Dr. Lippe. Froehlich was sent to the City Hospital and Kinney was arrested.

THE HONEST SHAKERS AND THEIR CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

The shopkeeper who cheats us by lying with regard to the quality of his goods, and the grocer or the butcher who gives us short weights, is a thief. However, their knavery touches nothing but our pocketbook. There is another widespread form of misrepresentation of a far more dangerous and villainous character.

We refer to the false statements and worthless guarantees that frequently accompany medicines. To guarantee a medicine to cure is to brand it as a quack product. If we can guarantee to cure disease, then we can guarantee everlasting life, for in a large majority of cases people die of disease, the proportion of violent or accidental deaths being very small.

The Shakers have always been known as a most upright and honorable people, and their success in the manufacture of medicines has also been well known. It is therefore not surprising to find them pursuing a very original and novel plan for the introduction of their remedy for dyspepsia.

These God-fearing people, whose motto has always been "Try all things and hold fast to that which is good," have put upon the market 10-cent sample bottles of their product, or sufficient to give it a trial.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action that for the trivial sum of 10 cents a person can usually determine as to whether or not it meets the requirements of his case. There are forms of dyspepsia which it won't help, but these are very rare. In most cases the first dose relieves distress, and an increase of appetite at once follows.

All druggists have it, and the next time you are troubled with indigestion send out and try this popular and successful product. It represents nearly a hundred years of patient investigation and study.

WON'T GET A NEW LICENSE.

CITY PROPERTY IN THE BLOCK

Comptroller Sturgeon Refuses to Sign the Petition and Thereby Hangs the Tale of Cella's Discomfiture.

Louis Cella has struck a snag in getting a renewal of his license for his saloon, known as "The Place," at Twenty-first and Washington avenue. There is an engine house at Twentieth and Washington in the same block, and Comptroller Sturgeon's signature to the petition is necessary. Col. Sturgeon refuses to sign it because of the reputation of the place.

Louis Cella was the Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates in the Seventeenth Ward at the April election. He was defeated by Hiram Lloyd. The publication of Cella's record helped to encompass his defeat. On election day a man named Ward was shot in Cella's saloon by Charles Day. Day had sworn out a warrent against a man for illegal voting and accompanied a Deputy Sheriff to the saloon to point out the man. As soon as they entered Ward and a crowd of ward heelers who were drinking there attacked them, and Day drew his pistol and fired into the crowd in self-defense.

On another occasion Lizzie Kleinschmidt, alias "Black Lena," a notorious shoplifter, and herpartner, Sam Wray, were traced to Cella's place, and Wray was arrested while in the act of handing a bolt of silk over the bar to Cella.

On still another occasion 5,000 stolen cigarettes were recovered from Cella's place.

Cella and his partner, "Texas Tom" Walsh, owned the Monte Carlo gambling house at the Madison track. They were indicted, but never brought to trial, and it was alleged they had undue influence over the Town Board. Anyway, every member of the board was afterwards convicted of malfeasance in office for failing to suppress Monte Carlo.

With these facts in view, Comptroller Sturgeon, as the agent of the city, could consistently sign the petition for license.

After the shooting Cella closed his place to keep out the crowd, and when the curious pressed on the porch to learn the details of the affair, Cella came out, and with a show of virtuous indignation, said to a policeman, "Mr. Officer, clear my premises; this is election day, and my saloon is closed. It is against the law for me to open, and I want those people moved." The obliging officer promptly drove away the throng, including several reporters.

After this there was some talk of revoking Cella's license because it was clear that his saloon was open on election day in violation of law. Strange to say, in spite of the undenied facts of the shooting having taken place in the saloon, where a crowd of men were drinking, the police failed to get proof satisfactory to them that the place was open, so nothing was done.

Besides the saloon at Twenty-first and Washington avenue, Cella owns the saloon on the southwest corner of Sixth and Morgan. This place acquired notoriety as a resort for thieves, and was regarded as a "fence." Cella was arrested once on a charge of receiving stolen property, consisting of two sealskin sacques valued at $500. He acnitted having purchased them from Jack Norton, alias O'Leary, who was sent up for stealing them, but denied knowing they were stolen.

This duty rests wholly with the Comptroller. The Mayor himself cannot overrule him, so this dilemma Cella enlisted the aid of Col. Charles Comfort, his old partner in the Madison track, and said to be interested with Cella in his stable. Col. Comfort called on Col. Sturgeon Thursday. The Colonel is said to have exerted considerable influence with the Mayor in making up his slate. He was said to have practically dicated a certain proportion of the appointments. But whatever Col. Comfort's influence may amount to with Mayor Walbridge it had no effect on Col. Sturgeon. He stood firm in refusing to sign Cella's petition for license. He referred Cella and Comfort to Excise Commissioner Bell, telling them the Commissioner might issue the license without his signature if he saw fit, but he resisted all persuasion to affix his signature.

CRAZED BY ILL HEALTH.

Ex-Cashier Warner of the Chemical Bank Ended His Life.

The suicide of C. S. Warner, formerly cashier of the Chemical National Bank of this city, at Paris, Mo., has caused distress to his many friends in this city. He was one of the original incorporators of the Chemical National Bank, and became its cashier immediately after the incorporation. Eight months ago his eyesight began to fail and he resigned his post. He went to Paris, Mo., the home of his wife, to live. His father-in-law is Judge D. H. Moss, President of the National Bank of Paris, Mo.

Mr. Warner went to a grocery store at 5 o'clock Thursday evening and bought a rope. From there he went to the river north of town, took off his coat and hat, tied one end of the rope to the root of a large tree and the other to his right foot and jumped off a skiff which he had tied to the tree. As soon as he was missed from home his brother-in-law, David H. Moss, went in search of him and found the body.

To Mr. Warner's poor health is attributed the cause of his act.

HIS MIND GAVE WAY.

Vincent Scollard Becomes Insane From Brooding Over His father's Suicide.

Vincent Scollard, son of Patrick Scollard, who committed suicide about a month ago at 1118 St. Ange avenue, is hopelessly insane in the City Hospital. His insanity dates from the time of his father's death, over which he has been brooding. Mrs. Helen E. Scollard, his wife, who has been supporting herself and little child of 6 years ever since her husband's aberration by canvassing for a book firm, visits him every day at the hospital, but the doctors give her little hope as to his ultimate recovery.

A Woman's Hard Lot.

Julia Walker, a young girl 22 years of age, is in bad luck. While on her way to St. Ann's Asylum to obtain shelter for her baby, four boys snatched her pocketbook containing $20. She had just been discharged from the Female Hospital. The child is four weeks old. She was betrayed while working as a domestic at 417 South Fourth street. Her betrayer accomplished her ruin under promise of marriage, and fled when her condition became known. Capt. Joyce of the Third District Station, to whom the woman appealed, took the child and had it sent to St. Ann's.

It has been in existence for a number of years and is composed of the teachers and school officers of the State generally. No fees are paid. State Superintendent J. R. Kirk was elected as advisory member of the State board. "White's School Management" and the "School Master in Literature" were the books adopted.

DO NOT LIKE TROUBLE.

But the Wessels Brothers Found Too Much of It.

Jacob W. Wessels, a salesman for Gerhandt Brothers, real estate agents, and his brother, Henry B., don't like trouble. They dress nicely, walk peaceably along the street and smoke their own cigarettes. But dressing well and smoking cigarettes is a practice which some people don't like to witness.

Henry Vollmer, 15 years old, don't like it, and he told the two Wessels brothers so, as they were promenading down Taylor avenue Thursday night. His expression caused trouble.

Young Vollmer was standing in the doorway of his stepfather's home, at 901 Taylor when he spied the brothers. He left the doorway and strolled on after them, relieving himself of such expressions as "Trun dat cigarette away" and "git on to de crease in his trousers," as he moved.

The brothers turned fiercely on young Vollmer and began chastising him. The lad is strong and gritty, and he fought like a lion when one of the Wessels struck him. Then his stepfather, Matthew Rothkopf, came out and created a four-hand fight. Officer Fox happened to be passing in a car in the midst of the excitement, and he placed all the parties under arrest. They had cross-charges of disturbing the peace opposite their names in the Second District Police Court Friday. The case was laid over until next Tuesday.

BELL IS AT HOME.

And Now He Will Take Up the Renewal of Licenses.

Excise Commissioner Bell has returned from a month's visit to Hot Springs and Mountain Valley. The time for the renewal of licenses is at hand and he has to be on deck.

When asked when the last day of grace was for renewals, Col. Bell replied by giving the reporter a copy of a letter sent by him to John W. Howard, Secretary of the Liquor Dealers' Benevolent Association, in which he says:

"In answer to your verbal inquiry asking when the last day for filing dram-shop petitions will arrive, I will state the law requires a petition to be filed and a license obtained before a person is authorized to conduct a dram-shop. Any person conducting a dram-shop after the expiration of his license and without filing a petition, is doing so in violation of the law; and I will transmit to the Chief of Police the names of all persons who have not filed their petition before the 3d of July, with the request that they close up such places and report the same to this office."

Col. Bell says about 1,950 licenses were issued for the first half of the year, and he does not anticipate much falling off. When asked about the renewals of licenses for the dives, he replied that he should be guided by the facts and the law, but declined to go further into the matter on the ground that he had but just arrived and had not gone into it yet.

NOT DESIRABLE VISITORS.

Officers Break Up a Practice Followed Out on Easton Avenue.

A plan to colinize disreputable women out on Thirty-second street and Easton avenue was nipped in the bud by Officers Fitzgerald and Conley Thursday evening. They arrested three women, inmates of Dollie Hughes' resort on Clark avenue, in the saloon of James O'Connell at 3204 Easton avenue. Hattie Gray, Ella Howard and Eve Parker were the trio.

They were arraigned in the Second District Police Court Friday and Assistant City Attorney Dodge, because he thought there was no evidence of frequenting, allowed two to pay costs and entered a nolle prosequi in the case of the third.

Several days ago a number of prominent citizens, among them Senator Richard Lancaster, who live near O'Connell's saloon, complained that women were frequenting the place, and "bleeding" the young men in the neighborhood for drinks. The officers investigated, and claim to have found that a man known as "Cider" was bringing women from down-town to O'Connell's place, then getting a number of young men. The officers encountered this when they entered O'Connell's place Thursday night, and arrested the women.

SHOT IN THE EYE.

Albert Meyer Wounded by the Proprietor of a Shooting Gallery.

William, alias "Buck" Kernan, proprietor of a shooting gallery at Huber's Grove, shot Albert Meyer, 18 years old, in the left eye during a picnic at his place Thursday. Young Meyer had spent all his money early in the day. In the afternoon Kernan asked him if he wanted to shoot, and Meyer responded that he had no money. "Then I'll shoot," replied Kernan, as he picked up a target rifle and levelled it at the boy. It was discharged and the bullet lodged in young Meyer's left eye. The wound is serious, although not fatal. The boy will lose his eye. Kernan was arrested by the Fourth District police.

INTERFERE WITH JUSTICE.

Methods of a Reprehensible Character at the Hospital.

DELAY IN CORONER'S CASES.

Several Untoward Instances of Late Which Have Materially Interrupted the Efforts of the Law Officers.

Because of delay at the City Hospital in reporting deaths by violence occurring there, the police authorities are being handicapped in the investigation of such cases and in the arrest of the guilty. They are complaining vigorously, and also declare that in other respects the hospital authorities are hampering them and are displaying a great absence of any desire to co-operate with the police.

The police cite the death of Joaquin Cobrero Wednesday night as one of the most glaring of the instances. Closely following it was the death of Malcolm McDonald, assaulted at the race track—and there are others.

Cobrero, according to the report finally sent to the Coroner from the hospital, was received there at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night in a comatose condition and apparently suffering from a fractured skull. Instead of the police being notified at once from the hospital, they received no word of the case until after 10 o'clock. The man died at 9:10 o'clock.

Night Chief Reedy states that upon receiving the telephone message from the City Hospital, he inquird the cause of the man's death, and the only satisfaction he could secure was that the man was dead and that it was a Coroner's case. He then ordered an officer sent to the hospital to examine the body for marks of violence. Chief Reedy states that the officer was not allowed to see the body. On this account the police were absolutely in the dark.

Thursday it was not any better. The report to the Coroner from the hospital on the case did not reach the Four Courts until late Thursday afternoon. For some reason the body was not remoevd to the Morgue until late in the afternoon, and, accordingly, it was almost 7 o'clock Thursday evening before the post-mortem, and until then the police were almost as much in the dark as before, as to the cause of death on account of the conflicting circumstances surrounding the case.

About 12 o'clock Thursday Capt. Peter Joyce and Special Officer Burke of the Third District examined the body at the hospital, but could establish nothing by the examination. When the post-mortem finally disclosed a fracture of the skull as the cause of death, the department had, practically, to begin its work anew.

Malcolm McDonald died at the City Hospital at 7 a. m. Thursday. Five hours later the police of the Sixth District, in whose bailiwick the assault occurred, first learned of its fatal termination. When they finally learned it. George Prisom, the colored trainer who committed the assault, was miles away. When the police were first notified of the assault they were deceived as to its seriousness by the report of the physician who attended McDonald at the Fair Grounds, which was to the effect that the injury was merely a slight scalp wound.

Another case, not so recent, was the murder of John F. McKenna, the Post-office clerk, Saturday, June 15 last, at Seventh and Franklin avenue. He was removed to the City Hospital as unknown. He was supposed to be suffering from a slight injury received in a fall caused by his condition. At the City Hospital he was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain, caused by a blow upon the head. Sunday he was identified as McKenna. Late Monday afternoon the police of the Third District were first informed of his identity and his precarious condition. By unusual exertion, mingled with some good fortune, they succeeded in arresting the man's assailant, who proved to be Jacob Goldstein. Tuesday, June 18, at 5 a. m., McKenna died.

Another instance was the death of Evelyn Brown, alias Washington, colored, who died at the City Hospital last Monday or Tuesday of a gunshot wound of the breast. Nothing was heard of her death until late in the morning of the day following. Fortunately, Rosie McNeil, her assistant, had been arrested the night the shooting occurred.

The Post-Dispatch reporter who called at the City Hospital was told by Dr. Sutter that steps have been taken by him to remedy these matters. He stated that he investigated the circumstances complained of in connection with the Cobrero case, and had severely reprimanded those at fault, as well as those responsible for the delay in the McDonald case.

INTERSTATE ENCAMPMENT.

Advance Details Arriving to Make Arrangements for Camping Quarters.

Capt. Frank K. Deffrey of the Neely Zouaves, Memphis, Tenn., arrived Friday morning with one of his lieutenants and his quartermaster sergeant.

Capt. Deffrey is an old St. Louis boy and a brother of Jos. H. Deffrey of this city, one of the founders of the Pastime Club. Capt. Deffrey repaired at once to the Fair Grounds to arrange for the accommodation of his company.

The official judges of the competitive drills, as selected by Secretary of War Lamont, will be First Lieutenant W. F. Hancock, Fifth Artillery; Lieut. W. H. Johnson, Sixteenth Infantry; Lieut. Ernst Hinds, Second Artillery; Lieut. H. C. Schumm, Second Artillery. These gentlemen are recognized as being among the most thorough tacticians in the United States Army.

Three members of the Indianapolis Light Artillery will arrive Saturday morning to arrange the camp for their battery.

The details arriving ahead of their commands will all be met at the Union Station by officers of the First Regiment and conducted to camp.

The American Tent and Awning Co. is hard at work erecting tents for the accommodation of the troops. About 200 tents will be up by Friday evening and by Saturday night the entire camp of 500 tents will be in order. They will be arranged in strict accordance with army regulations in streets, one company to a street. The cavalry will be to the right of the camp, the infantry to the left and the artillery and guns in the rear. Company officers will occupy the tents at the head of company streets. The general officers will be in front of the company streets.

The commandent of the camp will be Col. Purington, unless he should, as is possible, be called to Washington. In that event Mayor Keyes, also of Jefferson Barracks, will be in command.

Dr. John Matthews of Centenary M. E. Church, and Rev. E. B. Chappel of the Cook Avenue M. E. Church, have extended invitations through Secretary Gwynne to the troops to attend services at the respective churches both Sundays that they are here.

It is expected that most of the companies will arrive by Sunday night, and by Monday morning the camp will be complete and open to visitors.

The Citizens' Committee, of which Col. M. C. Wetmore is Chairman, has issued a strong appeal to the merchants of the city to permit the members of the National Guard in their employ to participate in the grand street parade Monday.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

To Open Locust Street.

Preparations are being made by the leading property-owners along Locust street to form an organization to be known as the Locust street street improvement Association, the chief object of which will be the opening of Locust street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. The plan is to tunnel through the Exposition Building and construct an arcade to correspond in width with the street proper.

The fact that one of the principal streets in the city is closed at one of the business corners has long been an aggravation to the property-owners. W. W. Culver, Vice-President of the Wrought Iron Range Co., and H. H. Culver, President of the Wrought Iron Range Co., and Messrs Anderson & Wade, the realty dealers, are leading the movement.

A meeting of the property owners will be held in the near future and definite action taken in the matter. There was some doubt expressed as to whether or not the walls of the Exposition Building would stand the tunnel, but Architect Legg, who built it, claims it can. The arcade will be constructed immediately to the rear of the stage in the Music Hall. There is a nave there 50 feet wide, in which there is not one foundation pier or column that would have to be removed. It is roughly estimated that the cost of the arcade will be $50,000.

To Buy the Lindell Hotel.

The deal closed recently for the leasing of the Lindell Hotel property and the changing of the management was, so it appears at present, to have been merely a preliminary arrangement to purchase the property outright. The Washington Realty Co. was incorporated in the Circuit Court Thursday, the object of the incorporation being the purchase of the Lindell Hotel. The capital stock of the company is $350,000, one-half paid up, held by the following persons: A. C. Stewart, 13,900 shares; A. E. Shapleigh, 11,300 shares; Joseph Franklin, 14,400 shares; Chas. Parsons, 7,200 shares; A. C. Stewart, trustee, 1,038 shares.

Under the new arrangement the present management of the hotel, Messrs. Howe & Chassaing, will be retired and the new management, Messrs. J. F. Donovan of St. Louis P. A. Brady of Chicago, will take hold. John Krager, Jr., of Chicago and R. E. Tommerson of St. Louis have been engaged as managers. Mr. Stewart of the Washington Realty Co., when seen, stated that the deal had not yet been closed, but that it would likely be consummated in a short time. The trustees of the Boston Ground Rent Trust own the ground.

An Acre Tract Sold.

A tract of land containing several acres, fronting on the west side of Taylor avenue, near the Frisco Railroad, was purchased Friday by Henry O'Neil for $14,975. This property is well located for manufacturing purposes, owing to the railroad facilities. Edward Mallinckrodt was the original owner of the land. Just what Mr. O'Neil intends doing with it is not known. Numerous inquiries have been made regarding West End business property by manufacturers, and realty dealers have a score of deals of that nature pending at present. The removal of the immense Barnard plant from Eleventh and Washington avenue to their new plant on the northeast corner of Laclede and Vandeventer avenues is in line with the movement of manufacturers to migrate west. It is reported that another big manufacturing building will be erected on Vandeventer avenue.

Sacred Heart Convent Property.

The sale of the lease of the old Sacred Heart Convent property, occupying an entire block between Broadway and Sixth streets and LaSalle and Hickory streets, was ratified by the courts Thursday. Samuel Bowman bought it for $110,000. The litigation has been pending in the courts since 1887. The suit was instituted to ascertain if the institution had a legal right to dispose of the property, as the ground had been donated by John Mullanphy and it was asserted that a clear title could not be given to a purchaser of the property. The petition named some fifty defendants, chiefly heirs and legal descendants of John Mullanphy. In June, 1890, an order of sale was granted, but the heirs appealed to the Supreme Court. In 1892 the Supreme Court dismissed the case. The original order of sale stood in force, but there was no purchaser until Mr. Bowman stepped in. The lease has ninety-three years ten months to run.

New Hilton Theater.

Work has been commenced on the new Hilton Theater, to be constructed on the northwest corner of Ninth and Market streets. The ground has been cleared and a gang of men have been set to work making the excavation for the foundation.

Mr. Hilton Secured a building permit for a $75,000 structure. The theater will be completed in December.

NAME NOT NEEDED.

Attorney McDonald Explains an Omission From an Indictment.

Attorney Jesse H. McDonald does not think the omission of the name of the victim from the indictment against Police Officer Lee Smith will in any way invalidate the indictment.

Smith, who is charged with an unnatural crime, was indicted by the Grand-jury. Assistant Circuit Attorney Bishop agreed with Smith's attorney that the indictment was defective, owing to the omission of the names of the victims, and wanted to quash the indictment. Judge Harvey laid the case over until Saturday to give Mr. McDonald an opportunity to explain.

Mr. McDonald said to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"The name was not known to me at the moment I drew the indictment, but I should not have set it out if I had remembered the name of the boy. I knew of no reason why the name should be given in charging a crime of this nature. It is not pleaded in any of the standard works on criminal pleading that I examined, and I left it out intentionally.

"If there is any authority in this State requiring the name to be given I shall present the case to the July Grand-jury next Monday, otherwise it can rest on the indictment now pending."

Mandamusing a Justice.

S. L. Isbell, attorney for Emma Fuson, asked the Circuit Court for a writ of mandamus to compel Justice Hennessy to grant a change of venue to his client. On Wednesday, when the case was called, it turned out that the name of the defendant was a misnomer. Mr. Isbell moved to dismiss the case on that ground, which motion Justice Hennessy disregarded. Isbell's motion for a change of venue was also disregarded. He then gave notice that he would ask for a writ of mandamus. The writ is returnable June 29.

Thomas Kinney and Henry Froehlich, alias "Shoo Fly," quarreled in front of 811 North Eighth street Thursday afternoon. Kinney knocked Froehlich down. Froehlich was sent to the City Hospital and Kinney was arrested.

AN EXAMPLE FOR ALL MEN.

THE HONEST SHAKERS AND THEIR CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

The shopkeeper who cheats us by lying with regard to the quality of his goods, and the grocer or the butcher who gives us short weights, is a thief. However, their knavery touches nothing but our pocketbook. There is another widespread form of misrepresentation of a far more dangerous and villainous character.

We refer to the false statements and worthless guarantees that frequently accompany medicines. To guarantee a medicine to cure is to brand it as a quack product. If we can guarantee to cure disease, then we can guarantee everlasting life, for in a large majority of cases people die of disease, the proportion of violent or accidental deaths being very small.

The Shakers have always been known as a most upright and honorable people, and their success in the manufacture of medicines has also been well known. It is therefore not surprising to find them pursuing a very original and novel plan for the introduction of their remedy for dyspepsia.

These God-fearing people, whose motto has always been "Try all things and hold fast to that which is good," have put upon the market 10-cent sample bottles of their product, or sufficient to give it a trial.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action that for the trivial sum of 10 cents a person can usually determine as to whether or not it meets the requirements of his case. There are forms of dyspepsia which it won't help, but these are very rare. In most cases the first dose relieves acute distress, and an increase of appetite at once follows.

All druggists have it, and the next time you are troubled with indigestion send out and try this peculiar and successful product. It represents nearly a hundred years of patient investigation and study.

THE FRANCIS PROGRAMME.

Mr. Francis' plan of action, which he is working out through his Me Too, Maffitt, to thwart the wishes of Missouri Democrats in the matter of a State Convention, is now clearly apparent. He has induced Mr. Maffitt to repudiate his pledged word, as given to Chairman Farris and the other chairmen of County Committees, and to require new action by all the counties that have already acted. Ignoring his promise to accept the request of county chairmen, Mr. Maffitt now demands that the County Committees shall assemble and fill out a blank that has been sent them, under penalty of having all that they have heretofore done towards securing a State Convention ignored as "irregular."

This is not only a violation of good faith, but it is an affront to the county committees and the mass conventions that have already acted and expressed their wishes in a perfectly regular manner.

The way to meet this is to ignore the affront and to hold the meetings and fill out the blank as required by Chairman Maffitt. If this is not done, Mr. Francis will have the excuse he wants for inducing his henchmen on the State Committee not to call a convention. In fact, the plan is for Mr. Maffitt to refuse to call the State Committee together unless he is requested to do so in the prescribed manner.

If the County Committeemen will act promptly, the blanks can be filled out from a majority of the counties and forwarded to Mr. Maffitt within a week. It is to be hoped they will act promptly, otherwise the convention will be delayed, even if it is called at all.

A MISPLACED BRUTE.

If one-half the charges of brutality made against Jail Guard Bruncke are true he is in the wrong position in the City Jail. He should be in a cell. Enough misconduct on his part has been admitted to warrant his prompt dismissal.

Bruncke is accused of personally assaulting two prisoners and cruelly beating one of them. In neither case was there necessity for violence and in one apparently no provocation for it. Both assaults may fairly be ascribed to temper and tyranny, which are out of place in any man clothed with authority over others.

The impropriety of keeping a man like Bruncke in a place of authority in a penal institution is not based upon sentimentalism or excessive sympathy for jailbirds. Many of these are rough and desperate characters and at times must be treated with roughness, but humanity and sound public policy require that they be not treated with brutality. Convicted felons are entitled to humane treatment, but the occupants of jails have higher rights than felons because they are held for trial and may be innocent of crime.

Bruncke has evidently bettered the instructions of Jailer Wagner in the exercise of his office. He seems to act on the theory that the prisoners are his personal chattels and the jail his private domain where he can beat his slaves and insult attorneys according to his brutal will. His unfitness for his place is apparent.

CATCHING THE DEMOCRATIC COON.

The Council's investigation of the registration lists for the purpose of discovering the records of city employes in the matter of the exercise of the franchise suggests the question: "What must the city employe do to be saved?"

What is the scope of the policy to be adopted by the Republican municipal administration with regard to the political conduct of city employes?

The Administration started out on the basis that offensive partisanship was good cause for dismissal and a bar to appointment to office. Offensive partisanship was practically defined by the practice of the heads of departments to be the casting of Democratic votes.

Under this rule Democratic employes who had failed to cast their votes would presumably merit favorable consideration from the Administration. But now comes a new rule that all employes must have a voting record. In other words, non-partisanship is as offensive as partisanship. The Democrat who does not vote is in the same boat with the Democrat who does vote and the Republican who does not care enough for the G. O. P. to support it at the polls must go.

We are thus enabled to get a fair outline of the disqualifications for office under the present city Administration. They are:

1. Offensive partisanship, embracing Democrats who have cast Democratic votes.

2. Political inactivity, embracing Democrats who have not voted.

3. Offensive non-partisanship, embracing lethargic Republicans who have not voted.

It necessarily follows, therefore, that the essential qualification for salvation under the present city administration is the casting of votes according to the political tests of Bro. Walbridge and Bro. Filley. The Democratic coon is caught "comin' and goin'."

The 4,000 stalwart applicants may yet be happy.

GOLD AND THE "BANKING POWER."

The total "banking power" of the world, according to the best recent statistics, is $20,000,000,000.

Nearly one-third of this, or in round numbers $6,000,000,000, is controlled by North America, chiefly the United States. The "banking power" of the United States is more than one-half that of all the so-called capitalist nations of Europe, Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands, which control $11,500,000,000.

The total amount of gold money in the world is $3,901,900,000.

Two things are strongly suggested by these statistics.

How easy it is for the "banking power," aggregating $20,000,000,000, to corner a gold stock of only $3,901,900,000.

With nearly one-third the "banking power" of the world and one-half as much as all Europe controls, how absurd is the assertion that the United States cannot be their own financial master and stand alone on a bimetallic basis.

THE DODGERS CORNERED.

Gov. Altgeld has taken high and unassailable ground in his announced determination to reconvene the Illinois Legislature should it adjourn without acting on the measures recommended in his extra-session proclamation.

The legislation urged by the Governor is vital to the welfare of the people of the State. The revenue provision recommended is necessary to prevent the bankruptcy of the State Treasury. All the subjects suggested relating to labor and corporations are of paramount importance. That this needed legislation is not in the statute book is due to partisan trickery and the influence of a corrupt lobby.

The Governor is under the strongest obligation to secure the laws he has asked the Legislature to enact. He cannot make the Assembly pass them, but he can make it refuse to pass them and thus demonstrate to the people of the State the necessity of shaking off the lobby and the party bosses in order to get honest legislation. He is bound to prevent the legislators from dodging the issue of the people vs. the lobby.

Gov. Altgeld would shirk his duty if he did not hold the Legislature up to its duties and responsibilities. He has shown that he is not the man to shirk any duty. He generally means what he says. The Republican majority will save time and money by facing the music now.

DUPING THE CREDULOUS.

The New York Evening Post by its supercilious attitude of superiority to all other newspapers and its over-mastering disposition to rate its contemporaries for not being as careful in the supervision of their news columns as the Post is has earned the reputation of a common scold.

But as a matter of fact there is no newspaper in the Union which, consciously or unconsciously, deals in more misrepresentation or is more easily duped into printing untrustworthy news and views. The Post's misrepresentation is of the worst sort, because it arises from a willingness to be deceived. An excellent illustration of this is given in the St. Louis correspondence of the Post of June 22.

The Post's St. Louis dispatch of that date is the most absurd tissue of falsifications that ingenuity could devise. It represents the action of Chairman Maffitt in yielding to the demand for a State convention as prompted by a belief among the gold men of the State that the "silver craze" has about died out and that they can control the convention for "sound money." This monument of absurd falsehoods is capped by a statement that "one positive proof that the people of Missouri are no longer daft on silver is the subsidence of Senator Vest." The letter then continues:

Two months ago he was satisfied that nine-tenths of the party were in favor of free silver, and he was not far from right then. He hastened to write a leter in harmony with the prevailing view, and for a time he was very glib in his denunciation of gold-bugs and the "crime of '73." But for a month he has kept his mouth shut. No man in the State feels the public pulse as carefully and as constantly as he does, and he is beginning to realize that he was too hasty for his own good. He would not only like to burn his letter, but the memory of it if he could.

Three days after the statement was penned Senator Vest came out in the Post-Dispatch with the strongest and most striking indorsement of free silver he has ever made public and with an unequivocal approval of a State convention.

But this fact will make no difference to the Evening Post. It will publish this and similar lies whenever its correspondent sends them. It wants lies on this subject. It knows that its plutocratic readers want lies and want to be fooled and it proposes to fool them to the top of their bent.

Comptroller Sturgeon is to be commended for resisting the pressure to induce him to sign the petition for a license of Louis Cella's saloon on Washington avenue and Twenty-first street. The record and reputation of this place are made known in the Post-Dispatch to-day. It has been notorious for some time past, but Cella is a ward politician and that fact covers a multitude of saloon 'sins. There is an engine-house in the block where the saloon is situated and the Comptroller's signature is necessary to make the petition valid. In firmly refusing to countenance the licensing of a saloon dive Mr. Sturgeon has not only set a good example for officials, but for private citizens.

When woman reaches the bench, cases like that of Mrs. Bracken, who was sued for the price of a dress which she asserted was a misfit, will be really decided. Think of a he Judge being called upon to say whether a woman's dress fits! When Mrs. Bracken put on the dress the Judge thought she looked so sweet in it that it was worth all that the maker asked. The verdict of all women on this judicial opinion will be, simply, "Just like a man!"

Gov. Altgeld's description of the Chicago's through-sewer-to-the-sea scheme as too big a job for the State of Illinois to undertake was accurate, literally and figuratively speaking. It is nothing more than a big Chicago job by means of which the Chicago jobbers would draw a pot of money from the pockets of the taxpayers. Even if it were not unconstitutional the Governor would have been fully justified in squelching the scheme on public grounds.

The great number of new buildings for homes and business places in St. Louis is peculiarly gratifying, and it is also a pleasing fact that as fast as they are occupied nearly all of them receive daily visits from the Post-Dispatch, which itself has done so much to build up the city.

Sam Jones postponed his temperance talk in Kansas City because it happened that there was not a red nose in his audience. Either the red-nosed part of the Kansas City people stay away from temperance talks or else they have substituted white paint for red.

If Chauncey Depew is really to marry an heiress who will have $8,000,000, and if he will be economical with his $50,000 salary, there is no reason why he should not be able to raise a bigger campaign fund than any of the other yearners for Presidential honors.

It is not so bad a thing to have "a racket in the Democratic party." Rackets frequently take place when men begin to think. It would be well for the country if the Republicans also were to wake up and exercise their brains a little.

Though the Chicago beauty who has consented to become Mrs. Von Schutzbar Milchling is to be a Baroness, she gets much the worst of the bargain in swapping for a thing so hideous so pretty a name as Rose Marston.

Only two of the Democratic editors in the New York Press Association voted for Cleveland when a vote was taken a few days ago. The President is as unpopular in his own State as in the West.

At the Second Judicial Circuit Convention of the Ohio Republicans the delegates "yowled and spit," and tried to come up to Kentucky. There is considerable "virility" in both States.

The Columbia is so swift that she is expected to be a great commerce destroyer. She will have to sail very fast to destroy as much commerce as we can kill with a high tariff.

Tricky politicians may be satisfied with such work as that over in Kentucky, but honest people are disgusted, whatever may be their political opinions.

Boston and Chicago both vote against gold monometallism. The East and West are not so far apart as many of us have supposed.

Rhea seems to be near the mark when he says the goldbug platform of Kentucky will defeat the Democrats by 30,000 to 40,000.

Rambling and Incoherent.

From the Madison County Democrat.

The Republic still continues to talk for "sound money" in a rambling, incoherent way, while the Post-Dispatch advocates the cause so dear to the hearts of the people and gains upon their confidence day by day.

WELL-KNOWN ST. LOUISANS.

Wayman Crow McCreery.

Wayman McCreery was born in St. Louis in 1851. His father had come here eleven years previous from Kentucky and engaged in the dry goods business with Wayman Crow. Young McCreery received his education at the Washington University. After three years spent in his father's dry goods store he entered the real estate business. Mr. McCreery likes society, is an ardent club man and finds great recreation in music and billiards. He was the moving spirit of the old Musical Union and the St. Louis Glee Club. For seventeen years he has been musical director of Christ Church Cathedral. In 1875 he married Miss Mary Louisa Carr, daughter of Dabney Carr. He has four children.

MEN OF MARK.

The Rev. Wolcott Calkins has resigned the pastorate of the Eliot Church at Newton, Mass., on the ground that, having for thirty-seven years preached to wealthy congregations, it is his desire now to minister to the poor.

For ten years Mr. W. I. Smith, a White Plains (N. Y.) business man, did not take a single holiday. But last week he was induced to stop work for one day and enjoy himself at the seashore. He went in bathing and was drowned.

F. E. Lorton, professor of history in the West Side High School of Milwaukee, who achieved notoriety by writing an article derogatory to the American Revolution, has been reduced from a professor to an assistant teacher on account of the article.

The amount won by the ex-King of Servia at the Paris Grand Prix was $140,000, enough to pay a quarter of his gambling debts at least. There was an element of superstition in his betting. A mare had won every eighth Grand Prix race previously, and his inference that a mare would win the 1895 race proved to be correct.

Many members of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington, including four attaches of the Chinese Legation, ride bicycles. The fashion was started by the Russian Minister, Prince Cantacuzene, who astonished the capital when he began to take out his daughter on a wheel. The miles of asphalt pavement in Washington make that city an attractive place for wheeling.

WOMEN OF NOTE.

Harriet Jayne has been a patient at Bellevue Hospital, New York, for forty years, and has been admitted for treatment at least 100 times.

The Empress of Austria says she will never wear anything but black hereafter, and is distributing her court dresses among her intimate friends.

Mother Mary Gonzaga, who is said to be the oldest Sister of Charity in the United States, celebrated the sixty-ninth anniversary of her initiation into the order at Philadelphia on Friday. She is 85 years of age.

Mrs. Esther Morris of Wyoming is undoubtedly the mother of suffrage. She is past 80 years of age and journeyed from Spokane to Cleveland to attend the Republican Convention the other day. Mrs. Morris was a Justice of the Peace in her town years before Susan B. Anthony was generally heard of.

The death has been announced of Mrs. Mary Carlyle Aitken Carlyle in Edinburgh. Her mother was Jane Carlyle (Craw Jean), a sister of Thomas Carlyle. Jane Carlyle married her cousin, James Aitken, and Miss Mary Carlyle Aitken, a child of this marriage, married a cousin named Alexander Carlyle. After the death of Mrs. Jane Welsh Carlyle, Mary Carlyle Aitken went to Chelsea as housekeeper to her uncle, Thomas Carlyle, and acted as his literary amanuensis.

EVERYTHING HAS ITS USE.

(From Pflegende Blaetter.)

What in the world do you use such a long-armed apprentice for?

Oh, he comes in handy to measure my stout customers.

Simply Consistent.

From the Sedalia Democrat.

The Democrats of Missouri are suffering from no craze on the money question. They were in favor of bimetallism twenty years ago, ten years ago and two years ago, and they are in favor of bimetallism now. They simply desire to serve notice on the world that they have not been led astray by the new doctrine promulgated by President Cleveland and his Cabinet.

Why Wait?

From the Farmington Times.

Ex-Gov. Francis, gold bug, wants to wait to see what Kentucky is going to do with the silver question and how the State election there will result, before Missouri takes any action. Why should the Democrats of this State wait on those of Kentucky or any other State before giving expression to their convictions on an important public question?

The Wincing Committee.

From the Springfield (Mo.) Democrat.

The hides of the members of the Democratic State Committee are not as thick or as tough as they would like to have the public believe. They are not impervious to criticism. That they have felt the sting of the shafts that have been aimed at them and wince painfully in consequence is evident from the frequent explanations and defenses they offer for their refusal to call the convention a great majority of the Democrats want. The last to attempt to set himself right is Col. John H. Carroll of the First District, who has got himself interviewed in the St. Louis Republic. Col. Carroll, knowing the Democrats of his district were in favor of a convention, gave his proxy to a railroad lobbyist, who was accidentally on hand for the purpose of accepting it, and appeared at the meeting and spoke and voted against a convention. Col. Carroll says in his interview that he was summoned home by a telegram before the question of a convention was voted on. But as he did not respond to the summons, his position is not improved. He stayed until after the matter was settled and was in constant correspondence with his proxy.

A Universal Sentiment.

From the Kansas City Journal (Rep.).

The great majority of American people are for silver. So universal is this sentiment that the masses have not yet realized the fact that it has been demonetized. When that fact is fully realized by the masses and they are brought face to face with it, a proposition to do away with the Constitution itself would not be more universally rejected. For the people instinctively feel that to put the nation in the hands of a foreign money power, as the gold policy does, is but the first step to destroy constitutional government and liberty. There is no such word as defeat.

Five Counties at Once.

From the Springfield Democrat.

Last Saturday while the Democratic State Committee and its backers were professing ignorance of the wishes of the Democrats of the State in regard to silver coinage and a State convention five counties took action on the subject, and every one of them was favorable to both propositions. The pretended ignorance of the committee, the business of which is to know what the rank and file of the party want, is a played out farce.

Make It Loud Enough.

From the Springfield (Mo.) Leader.

A call for a new expression of opinion from Chairmen of County Committees on the question of a State silver convention has been issued by Chairman Maffitt of the State Committee. A decisive majority of the County Chairmen have already urged the calling of the State convention, but since the dull State Chairman has not understood, let a new reply go up and have it loud enough to make him dodge.

Make It a Big Success.

From the St. Francois Herald.

When we have a State silver convention let's have a good one—one that will forever haunt the memory of the goldbugs and cuckoos.

What If?

From Harper's Bazar.

What if some day
I opened wide the door between
Your life and mine, and came
And kissed you softly at your work?

What if that day,
Perplexed and burdened with your cares,
You greeted me half-absently, as if
You wished just then I had not come?

Ah, no! there dawns no day
To you, dear love, where I am not,
In all your work and rest.
Like music sounding through the play!

WOMEN AT HOME

A Handsome Bodice.

A neat new bodice is one of grass lawn in holland color, striped round the bodice with cream-colored Valenciennes lace set a jour to show a white silk lining; the sleeves have large puffs, also striped in the same way to the elbow and wrinkled and unlined to the wrist, while round the neck is a collar of white muslin, striped with lace and a boxplait of the same just down the center of the front. Many a woman would look charming in it, with a holland-colored crepon skirt, lined with white silk, crowning the costume with a hat of dark Panama lined with peach-colored silk, trimmed with rosettes of white ribbon and bunches of pink roses round the crown.

Children's Teeth.

Sugar and candies are bad for the baby's teeth as well as for his digestion. A tiny toothbrush, soft and pliant, should be used by the small child, and the least decay should be warrant for calling on the dentist. To lose one of the first teeth prematurely is a pity. When the second or permanent teeth appear care must be exercised that they are not crowded and that they come in evenly. Let the dentist see the child at least twice a year, and oftener if there is need. In this way disfigurement and subsequent pain will be avoided. Medicine which may blacken the teeth or injure the enamel should be taken through a glass tube.

Raisin Cake.

One pound of seeded raisins, boiled and dried, thickly dredged with flour; one cup butter, one pound sugar, granulated; one cup sweet milk, three eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately. Two teaspoonfuls cream of tartar, one teaspoonful soda, dissolved with boiling water; one tablespoonful cinnamon; one teaspoonful cloves. Bake one hour in moderate oven.

London's New Singer.

Mlle. Marie Lafargue, whose London performance in "Guernica" has excited admiration, was born in the Basque provinces twenty-three years ago. Her musical capacity was discovered by the Comtesse de la Rochefoucauld, who sent her to study at the Conservatoire, where she won the first prize for opera, and last year she was immediately engaged to the National Academy of Music, where she created Desdemone in "Othello." She has a fine face, a voice strong and pure and dramatic power of a high order.

Orris Root.

Orris root, ground or pounded, is an excellent perfume for sachets in one's drawers of under linen and it is coming into fashion again, though its virtues have been always known. The Florenthe orris is the best, and women who are suspicious of an adulteration of flour in the prepared powder always buy a handful of the rough, chalky white roots that the apothecary will grind up before their eyes. This they put in double bags of soft silk to lay about on shelves and in handkechief and glove boxes. Orris communicates a delicious odor of violets to whatever it comes in contact with.

Hints for Young Wives.

Let the sink be near the stove, and immediately beside the sink place the kitchen table.

At the back of the table should be a rack. One half of it should be fitted with hooks on which can be hung the iron spoons and forks for cooking, the egg-beater, lemon-squeezer, meat-chopper and potato-parer.

As pots are emptied they should be filled with hot water and stood in the sink, and when the meal is over cleaning up is only a trifling task.

To Tell Linen From Cottn.

In buying handkerchiefs it is always an advantage to know whether the "strictly all linen" woof is really from the lax plant or not. To distinguish between cotton and linen it is only necessary to moistin the tip of the finger and press it to the suspected handkerchief. If it wets through at once it is linen, while if any cotton entr into its manufacture it will take several seconds to wet through the threads. Also linmen the threads are usually uneven and coarser than the cotton.

THE DOCTOR'S ADVICE.

Please let me know what would be a good tonic for my blood. It is in a poor condition and causes frequent attacks of hadache.

Take a pill containing one-thirtieth of a grain of arsenious acid and one grain of reduced iron after each meal.

Kindly tell me of a drug to apply to the nails to stop the habit of biting them.

Tincture of aloes may be used with good effect.

Will you please publish a remedy for erysipelas?

During the active stage of the disease tincture of iron may be used with good effect. Ten drops should be taken in water every three hours. Also take a good dose of rochelle salts in water before breakfast several times a week.

Kindly tell me what to take for rheumatism affecting the leg and foot.

Take ten grains of salicylate of soda in water every three hours.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Francis' Kansas City Tactics.

To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

Anent the article "Gold Bugs Want Delay," and your editorial in Saturday night's (midnight) issue of your paper, both of which refer to the proposed calling of a Democratic State Convention in Missouri for the purpose of affording opportunity to the party in that State to discuss financial matters and formulate an expression of opinion thereon, and also to the persistent, systematic and cunningly astute movements of the Administration forces, led by ex-Gov. D. R. Francis et al., to circumvent if they cannot prevent such action, I desire to briefly state a few facts which will go far to strengthen the position you have taken in the matter.

I was present during the entire sitting of the last State Convention of the Missouri Democracy at Kansas City last summer, and I well remember the discussion of this same subject in that body. That convention was, like it, as representative of the sentiment of the party in Missouri on the money question, as any which could be convened now; yet that convention adopted resolutions entirely at variance with the assertions and protestations of the ex-Governor and his cohorts by an affirmative vote of nearly five to 1, if I rightly remember. Tom Connor of Joplin seems to be another fellow who wants "to put in his time testing the sentiments of the Democracy of Missouri." Mr. Editor, my candid opinion is that those people know already, too well, what the sentiments of the Democracy of Missouri are on this question and are only courting delay and "sparring for an opening," as they put it in sporting parlance, in order to spring a mine of some sort on the people, as no advantage which could be taken would be beneath their service did it but accomplish their end.

The occasion of the convention above referred to was also the first time I had ever seen Francis, although frequently in print and reading of him, and it seemed really too bad to think that he should be aiding such an ignoble cause.

Truly, he served his masters well, but he must, with them, learn the lesson that the people cannot always be fooled. Another consideration for delay on the part of the self-styled "sound money" coterie is that they are doubtless trembling lest an epidemic of silver conventions may follow in the wake of favorable action in that direction on the part of a few important States, and with Illinois leading and Missouri a close second the foundation for a general stampede would be laid in such a way as to render it almost impossible for them to corral the remainder.

Crooked, Unsightly Telegraph Poles.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Chap. 15, art. 3, sec. 609 of the Revised Ordinances of the city, approved April 7, 1893, provides for the erection of "electric wire poles," and recites as follows: "The poles used as herein provided shall be of sound timber, not less than 8 inches in diameter at the upper end, straight, shapely and of uniform size, neatly planed or shaved, and thoroughly painted with two coats of lead and oil paint, etc."

Now, Mr. Editor, refer to sec. 605 and you will find that the Board of Public Improvements are the duly authorized agents of the city in the matter of erecting poles, etc. This being so, why does the Board of Public Improvements permit the erection of the crooked and unsightly poles as now found erected in the streets, alleys and sidewalks of the city? Why do they not compel the companies erecting the poles to comply with sec. 609, if only in the matter of painting "with two coats of lead and oil paint of such color as may be directed by the Board of Public Improvements?"

How much more sightly the crooked poles would be if painted as have been the poles of the Bell Telephone Co. very recently.

Perhaps the Board of Public Improvements will answer (when interviewed): The finances of the city will not warrant the creation of a new department to be known as "pole inspectors," to report the condition of the poles from time to time. Should they so answer, then their attention may be called to chap. 15 art. 3, sec 615 of the Revised Ordinances, which provides that the Board of Public Improvements shall appoint one "expert" in electric lighting, salary $2,500 per annum, and the expert shall appoint one clerk, salary $1,200 per annum; five inspectors, salary $1,200 per annum each, with horse and vehicle each, $20 a month; one draughtsman, salary $1,200 per annum; one assistant clerk, salary $900 per annum; two night inspectors, salary $1,200 per annum each; two inspectors of second-class, salary $900 each. The whole amount aggregating $17,200 per annum.

This is certainly a sufficient amount of money provided for to be paid the employes of the lighting department of the city to warrant the "expert" in calling the attention of the Board of Public Improvements to the fact that the electric companies who are occupying the streets, alleys and sidewalks with their pole fail to comply with so much at least of sec. 609 of the city ordinance which provide for painting the poles, to say nothing bout the unsightly crooked poles erected.

Transfers Needed on the Lindell.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We, a number of citizens residing in the vicinity of Cote Brilliante and King's highway, deem it advisable to solicit your aid in getting the officials of the Lidell Railway Co. to issue a transfer at the intersection of Cottage and Taylor avenues, whereby passengers on the Spalding avenue division of the Lindell who wish to ride nrth on Taylor avenue will be spared the trouble and loss of time in riding to Taylor and Finney avenues in order to get a transfer and riding back again over the same road, a distance of ten or twelve long blocks.

At present the citizens of this vicinity who want to ride north on Taylor avenue are either compelled to walk from King's highway to Taylor or else pay two fares to get north, or, as stated before, to ride almost a mile out of their way to get a transfer, whereas a transfer can very readily be given on the Spalding car going eastand Taylor going north, thus enabling passengers to make connections at Cottage and Taylor avenues. We have no doubt that if the managers of the Lindell, who have been heretofore so indulgent to the public, realized what an inconvenience it is to their patrons living in this neighborhood, they would readily accede to our demands, and with the assistance of the Post-Dispatch to lay the matter before them succes is almost assured. The War on the Dives.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As an old subscriber of your paper, allow me at this late day to congratulate you upon the stand that you have take in behalf of morality in this city in making war on the low dives called variety theaters. They are the most demoralizing places imaginable. They employ performers, both male and especially females, that are bred from dens of infamy from their youth and from experience have acquired some degree of talent, sufficient to allure, decoy and entice old age as well as youth.

The Police Department seems to have at last taken cognizance of the fact and done a good deal to purify them, but they seem to be letting up on them, and these demoralizing resorts are getting again aggressive. The Winter Garden is among the worst. Their cappers are on the lookout for the detectives. They know them all, and when they visit all is serene, but no sooner as they turn their backs the stage sirens take their victims from the gallery to the adjoining rooms and there apply their enticements. Beer, wine and whisky are served up as required and the unsuspecting are led astray. Keep up the war on the dives. OLD CITIZEN.

Inadequate Sprinkling.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What are our street sprinkling inspectors for? Drawing their salaries which they do not earn, or to do their duty? They surely do not attend to their business if the following is a sample: The district between Morgan street and Laclede avenue, and Compton and Grand avenues, is sprinkled by only one wagon, there last year the contractor for the same district had four (4) wagons and did his work satisfactorily. This year the street are not sprinkled until 10 or 11 o'clock in the morning and the dust at times is unbearable. Why is it that our Street Commissioner does not get after this contractor, or is there something back of it? A TAXPAYER.

The Builders' Exchange Excursion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Having been present at the Builders' Exchange excursion, and reading an article over the name of "Old Fogy" in last evening's issue of your valuable paper, deem it my duty to state that there was about 4,000 of the elite of the city on board the two boats; that 1,800 of the excursionists tender their sympathy to "Old Fogy" and congratulate him for one thing, viz.: truthfully naming himself, for there never was a more pleasant day spent in every way than on the memorable occasion of June 26, 1895; every person wearing a beautiful souvenir of the stars and stripes, and all feeling in accord with the sentiment. Hereafter, in the interest of law-abiding, innocent amusement-loving class of people, at the request of 3,500 of grand old St. Louisans, I is hoped that when the Builders' Exchange excursion takes the boat to go South, that "Old Fogy" will take a train North to go as far away as possible.

ROPE CUT DEEP INTO THE NECK.

Sickening Sight at the Execution of Michael McDonough.

BLOOD CAME IN TORRENTS.

Spectators Turned White at the Sight and With Difficulty Kept Their Nerve.

COLUMBUS, O., June 28.—Michael McDonough, the Kenton wife murderer, was hanged at 12:08 this morning in the penitentiary annex. The execution was a sickening one. The rope cut deep into the neck when the body dropped severing the trachea and jugular vein. The blood spurted over Dr. Jones, one of the physicians, who was standing under the scaffold, then flowed in a torrent to the stone floor of the room. Some of the spectators turned white and with difficulty kept their nerve. The heart beats ceased in just 11¼ minutes. McDonough exhibited the utmost indifferenec to his fate up to the time he went on the scaffold. He was the coolest man who ever sat in a death cell. On the scaffold, however, he became very nervous and his knees were trembling very noticeably when the thap was sprung. He fell only seven feet. McDouough was 60 years of age and his neck did not have the muscular resistance of a young man. This is the first bungling execution in the penitentiary in ten years.

His Companion Has Disappeared.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 28.—Charles J. Langholz of this city was found dead yesterday, fifteen miles south of Junction City, with a bullet wound in the head. Mr. Langholz left here June 17 with J. M. Taylor, a member of the notorious Taylor gang. Taylor returned a few days later and then disappeared.

TELEGRAPH-TELEPHONE WAR.

The Western Union and Bell Companies Preparing to Fight.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 28.—A big telegraph and telephone war is in sight. The Western Union Telegraph Co. and the American Bell Telephone Co. have a contract which at present requires a company to operate only in its own peculiar sphere, but it will be broken.

The real trouble between the two companies lies in the long distance telephone, which was not thought of when the contract was signed, in 1879. The idea of the Western Union was to control the electric communication between long distances and leave local communication to the Bell Telephone Co. The long distance telephone service has cut wofully into the Western Union profits. The loss on account of general messages which formerly went over the telegraph wires is immense, and accounts for the fact that the growth in Western Union revenues during the past five years has not kept pace with the growth of the country and its business.

Both the Western Union and the Bell companies have been quietly preparing for the struggle which is impending. Both have been putting in an immense amount of copper wire, the former to put on telephone connections, the latter intending to put on telegraph instruments when necessary. Both sides talk of a renewal of the contract next year, but neither expects it. It is possible the Postal Telegraph Co. and the new Standard Telephone Co. may become factors in the fight if a break should come.

SHOT BY THE REBELS.

Col. Garza and Five of His Officers Reported Killed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, June 28.—The Rebels took Marida on Monday. Col. Garza, the Government's commander here, together with five of his officers, are reported to have been shot. The rebel commander is said to be Rojas Paul's nephew.

Government soldiers sent from Valencia to help defend Marida rose against their officers, it is said, killing two. They are marching toward Marida with the intention of assisting the rebels. The majority of the rebel troops, it is asserted, are Colombian and Ecuadorian refugees.

TOWNES CLAIMED HIS OWN.

Romantic Story of a Georgia Schoolmarm and the Man Who Loved Her.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 28.—The final chapter of a romantic story was ended here in the marriage of Miss Fannie Rosa Atkinson, a school teacher, to Sanmore Brooks Townes, a prominent young lawyer. The parents of both were intimate friends, and the girl's mother was so fond of the boy that the infant Fannie was formally deeded to the 2-year-old Sanmore. Eighteen years later Townes, while a student at Columbia College, met and fell in love with Miss Atkinson, knowing nothing of the parental arrangement. On returning to Atlanta he was told of it, and at once made good his claim.

HOMICIDAL WINE.

Several Tragedies Have Occurred Where It Has Been Drank.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 28.—A peculiar coincidence in connection with the murderous tragedies which have taken place in this vicinity for several months past is the fact that they were all brought about after the drinking of a certain wine manufactured at Cajon. Less than a year ago Thomas Guriak drank some of this wine and killed Jesse Taylor, for which he was convicted and sentenced to serve a term in San Quentin. A little later Joseph Celmot committed suicide after having imbibed this wine too freely. A few weeks ago the community at Cajon was startled with another tragedy. A neighborhood gathering was held and at the dinner some of this wine was imbibed to enliven the occasion, which closed with the killing of James P. Medlin by W. L. Tabor. The latter was convicted of murder in the second degree and is now awaiting sentence by the Superior Court.

The latest crime following the drinking of this wine was committed at Hesperia, when J. E. Douglass shot and killed W. E. Neal in a most cold-blooded manner. This chain of coincidences so full of tragedy has led to the suggestion that something uncanny must be lurking in the wine.

SIX FIREMEN MEET DEATH.

Five Others and Three Citizens Are Injured.

AT A FIRE IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Flames in San Francisco Destroy 100 Homes and Other Property Worth $2,000,000.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 28.—Last night's fire in the wholesale crockery establishment of McDonald Brothers on First avenue South, near Third street, is the most disastrous in the loss of firemen's lives in the history of the Minneapolis fire department. Five brave fellows lie mangled and lifeless and six of their comrades are writhing in agony at various hospitals. Of these six, one at least seems doomed to die, while in another case the issue is in doubt. The great five-story brick building, with its enormous stock of crockery, is in utter ruin, and the blackened walls, broken windows and drenched floors of the adjoining buildings bear mute evidence to the victory won by the department against odds in confining the flames to the place of their origin.

The list of the killed is as follows:
Frank Eulein, Lieutenant.
Walter Richardson.
Joseph W. Hoy.
John Horner.
Christian Sande.

The seriously injured are:
John Gray, broken knee cap and other slight injuries.
Ernest D. Caldwell, captain, back badly strained and internal injuries; may die.
Henry Gau, back and kidneys badly injured; will die.
Frank Egan, bruised.
W. H. McDonald, lieutenant, badly crushed.
Ed Thieland, captain, badly bruised about head and body.

Besides the firemen who were injured were the following private citizens:
Theodore Voidt of Anoka, Minn., cut by falling glass.
Wm. Breitenstein, Minneapolis, cut by falling glass.
Paul Johnson, Minneapolis, cut by falling glass.

The heavy brick wall which wrought this injury fell almost without warning. The flames had been kept well within the building by iron shutters until the interior was a blazing furnace. The newly dug cellar of a proposed building permitted access on one side, and this point of vantage was occupied by a score of firemen who were directing a half dozen streams into the building. Suddenly the roof fell with a roar. The crash carried down the girders, the sidewalk wavered for an instant and then toppled over on the heads of the firemen beneath. The multitude that stood watching were breathless and silent. The vast cloud of smoke and dust that arose from the debris choked out the flames momentarily, and there was no sound save the breathing of the engines. Then the police and willing helpers rushed forward and pulled the mangled forms of the dead and living from under the pile of bricks. The dead were so mangled that it was some time before all could be identified. The loss is $40,000 on the building and $60,000 on the stock. The insurance is ample to cover this.

HORRIBLY MUTILATED.

How the Brazilians Treated the Corpse of Admiral Da Gama.

NEW YORK, June 28.—A special to the Herald from Buenos Ayres says: From one of the rebels who escaped capture by the Government troops after the insurgent defeat near Santa Anna, Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, details of the last battle in which Admiral Da Gama took part, and of his suicide have been secured. The Admiral at the head of a force of 400 sailors was engaged by a brigade of Government soldiers numbering 1,200. The battle lasted five hours, and at least 300 men were killed or wounded. Some of the insurgents advised Da Gama to retreat, but he refused and they abandoned him. With a handful of men the Admiral repulsed five charges of the Government cavalry, but the struggle was hopeless, and seeing that all was lost Da Gama ordered a retreat and then cut his own throat.

Da Gama's body was taken to Santa Anna by the Government troops and there horribly mutilated. The throats of many of the captured rebels were cut by the victorious soldiers.

WILL NOT BE BULLIED.

Japan Does Not Court War But Has No Fear of Russia.

NEW YORK, June 28.—"I really don't think war between Japan and Russia is imminent," said Mr. Hashiguchi, the Japanese Consul General at New York, in an interview.

"However," continued the Consul, "Japan will not be bullied. If Russia attempts to interfere with the affairs in Corea, Japan will insist upon her rights. We are just beginning to recover from a rather exhausting war and are in no hurry to get into another quarrel, but I wish to say emphatically that Japan is not afraid of Russia. I will go so far as to assure you that there are Japanese who are not carried away by enthusiasm who would not be astonished to see a Japanese army in St. Petersburg within the next two years.

"Mr. Waeber, Russian Minister to Corea, is a very clever man. He is over fifty years old and has been Minister at Seoul more than ten years. He was once Russian Consul at Yokohama. Waeber is a skillful and experienced diplomat, and I have no doubt that he has been greatly influential in bringing about the present situation.

"You see there is no limit to Russia's aggressive and grasping spirit. If Russia could do us out of the fruits of our victory over China by intrigue and threats there is no doubt she would be glad to do so. But Japan is not easily scared. We know something about war, and we realize that from a strategic standpoint Russia would find it difficult to make much headway against us."

A WHALE FOR EVERY MAN.

The Rev. Goins Tells What Would Happen to the Negro Jonahs.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 28.—At a political gathering of negroes last evening Rev. W. C. Goins made an address in which he said: "I would say to my white brethren that when the negro asks for equal rights he does not mean to come in to your parlors or eat at your tables. He does not mean to go into your fine drug stores and ask for a glass of soda. But we want to have the assurance that if we want a glass of soda we can get it. I have the ability to keep your books. I want to have the assurance of my privilege to contest for that position as a man and not as a negro. We want to measure our talents with the proudest American citizen. Some want us to go to Africa, to Texas or to colonize on an island. The sod of America was made sacred by the blood of your fathers and our fathers, and we are going to stay here. If we ever attempted to colonize elsewhere and could all be loaded on a ship I believe that a storm would overtake us; that the negroes would be found to be jonahs and we would be cast overboard. But we would not be lost. There would be a whale for every colored man, and when the morning dawned the thousands of bright-eyed faces turned toward heaven would be landed on the shores and a mighty shout would go up, 'Home again!'"

PRESIDENT DIAZ.

In Good Health and Not Afflicted With Bright's Disease.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO CITY, June 28.—Inquiries have been received here from the United States and abroad regarding the report that President Diaz has Bright's disase. That report, it is surmised, has been circulated with a view to depressing Mexican bonds in Europe.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent called to-day on various persons intimately connected with the President, and obtained the opinions of physicians familiar with his condition and how he is. They say that President Diaz is in excellent health. Although 65 years old, he has the appearance of a robust man of 55.

He is active, quick in his movements and has the color of health in his bronzed, soldierly face.

Once in a great while he suffers from headaches, but his careful method of life keeps him fit for his duties every day in the year. He smokes little and only mild cigars. He is exceedingly abstemious, rarely taking with his dinner more than a single glass of claret. He occasionally goes riding, having excellent saddle horses. In this sport he is tireless. The doctors consider him good for many years active work, as mentally and physically he is in his prime.

The demand for Mexican dollars from Paris has temporarily ceased. There is good inquiry from Europe for the new 5 per cent silver bonds. Europe will take the entire issue. These bonds, standing today at 69, will make this one of the most successful issues ever made by this government.

Bankers state that the European demand for all classes of silver securities is growing. The rate of interest is tempting, even 3 per cent international bonds, payable in silver, yielding 7 per cent at the present quotation in Europe.

Many American investors are here, and a large amount of American capital is going into the tropical plantations. Bankers are doing little in foreign exchange, although the importations are large.

MARIE BURROUGHS' ADVICE.

The Testimony in Her Suit Has Been Submitted to Judge Troutt.

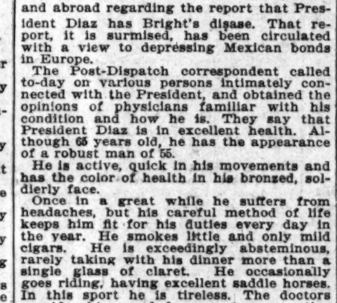

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 28.—The testimony of Marie Burroughs, the actress, in her suit for divorce from her husband, Louis Massen, has been submitted to Judge Troutt. She alleged infidelity, and in her testimony says she learned three years ago that her husband was unfaithful. Two years later her suspicion was confirmed by the finding of certain letters addressed to him. Although she lived at the same hotel, she says she never condoned his offense and always occupied separate apartments. He was a good actor, and for that reason she kept him in her company.

IN THE RAIN AND THE MIST.

Day for the Harvard-Yale Race Opened Gloomily.

GALE'S FERRY SHUT OFF.

Both Teams Rested Up and Were Confident That Their Colors Would Float in Front.

GALE'S FERRY, Conn., June 28.—Shut out from sunlight and filled with drifting fog and saturated with a clinging mist, this place on the morning of the day fixed for Yale's annual contest with Harvard seemed shut off from all connection with the outside world. Even the old ferryman, the only connecting link between Gale's Ferry and Montville, the nearest railroad station, could not be found, and the dripping telegraph wires looked as if no electricity could be in them. The robins, which usually are so plentiful in the cherry trees, were absent, and the only sound which came in from the outside world was the occasional puffing of some tug or locomotive way out in the mist.

At 8 o'clock there was but slight appearance of change. Every brook was this morning a river, pouring volumes of muddy water into the Thames. Instead of the familiar dark blue surface, the river has taken on a yellow color. There was but little wind, and its early effect on the mist and fog was not noticeable.

At the quarters of the rival crews there was not the slightest change in the daily routine, excepting the absence of hard work that has been a feature of the past days.

It seems as if nothing can disturb Bob Cook's happy air, or Capt. Armstrong's smile. These men did not seem a whit bothered about the weather. Coach Cook this morning reported his men in good condition and he and they have had all the confidence of the most enthusiastic followers of the blue in Yale's victory.

The freshet promises a possible equal of the record of 20:10 and from the standpoint of an oarsman never was a day begun with better promise.

Over at Red Top the illness of Hollister has thrown a shadow over the place, but the annuoncement that Jennings of the Freshmen eight has been selected to work his oar has served to restore confidence among the followers of the crimson.

THE HARVARD CREW.

At noon the weather outlook had improved, the rain which had been falling since 9:30 o'clock having subsided and the fog on the river breaking away. The orders issued were that every man should be at his post at 4 p. m.

OTTO STIFEL TALKS.

The Millionaire Brewer's Son Tells About His Turf Venture.

Otto F. Stifel is still an occasional visitor at the track, and nothing pleases him better than an interesting race, but he says he has no inclination to return to the turf, especially in view of the fact that his father and wife were always bitterly opposed to his connection with it.

"It seems to be the general impression," said Mr. Stifel, "that my experience on the turf was a costly one to my pocketbook, and a great many newspaper stories have been written about what a fortune my horses lost me. Now, as a matter of fact, I don't believe that I dropped over $8,000 all told. Shurmer and myself started in on Velvet; that is the nucleus of the Gambrinus stable was purchased with the money, Trainer Johnnie Garcia had made us win beforehand. Vortex, one of the first horses we owned, was a most fortunate investment. We won over $30,000 on his first three starts, and if we had managed it right when we took him to Guttenberg, I believe we would have made one of the biggest coups ever executed on the American turf. We were novices, however, and that accounts for our failure. We knew Wightman was a cripple when we bought him, but all we wanted was to win one race with him. We could have won him out, and if luck had been with us everything would have gone just as we were hoping it would. We tried to run our stable like we would any other business. Every time we started a horse we wanted to win, and defeat was something we never wanted to be confronted with. Experience is what we lacked, however, and if we only knew then what we do now, the history of the Gambrinus and Missouri stables would have been different.

"When the Washington Park officials questioned Servitor's race, it made me hot, and I guess that little incident had more to do with my determination to get out of the business than the money the horses cost me, as a great many people seem to think."

YO TAMBIEN STILL SICK.

The Queen of the Kendall Stable Is in a Bad Way.

Yo Tambien, the Queen of the Kendall stable, is still a very sick mare. Her illness has delayed the departure of Smith's horses for Oakley, where they have valuable stake engagements. It was thought she would improve enough this week to be able to go away with the rest of the stable Sunday. However, the veterinary attendant upon the great mare, says it would be risky to subject her to a tedious railway journey, and, in consequence, trainer George Reed has determined to leave Yo Tambien behind in charge of the stable foreman, when he leaves with the rest of the horses Sunday night.

The big mare has been falling off in flesh since she became ill, until now she looks to be only a skeleton of her former great self. Even her trainer is in doubt about getting her to the post again this season, although he has hopes of doing something with her late in the fall, providing everything goes well. The mare is now 6 years old, and her racing career all but over.

ATTORNEY HUNT SATISFIED.

The Civic Federation's Legal Adviser Cites the Illinois Constitution.

The defeated Chicago racing syndicate is pinning its faith upon the special session of the Illinois Legislature for a resumption of its "games" at Hawthorne and Harlem. Legal talent has been employed and the syndicate believes that a bill can be passed by making it a clause in one of the revenue measures. The idea of the syndicate is to give 2 per cent of its revenues to the State, and thus secure sixty days of racing for each of its tracks. Those who are informed say that despite the elation of the crowd over the scheme there is little chance of its success.

Attorney Hunt of the Civic Federation cited section 8, article 5, of the Constitution of the State. It reads that "the Governor may, on extraordinary occasion, convene the General Assembly, stating therein (his call) the purpose for which it is convened, and the General Assembly shall consider no business except that for which it is called."

Mr. Hunt smiled when he read this. "You can draw your own inferences from that," he said. "What they may do, or what they think they can do, is entering the domain of speculation. What I have read is what the Constitution says upon the matter."

Merry Prince won the Pansy stakes for 2-year-olds at Sheepshead Bay. McCafferty's Applegate was third.

C. M. Barrow's 3-year-old filly, Carrie B., pulled up very lame in her work and it will be some time before she starts again.

The Standard Club "welched" for $2,000 on the Lissak race at Oakley Thursday. When the book cut in Leo Mayer said the men behind it were all right.

La Pavan ran a suspicious race at Kansas City Thursday. Owners R. B. Franels & Bro., and Jockey Van Camp were suspended by Judge Carroll.

Johnny Campbell says he declared to win the Tidal stakes with Gotham because he wanted to keep Counter Tenor from being penalized in the Realization.

J. J. Burke has been appointed steward for the Jockey Club at Brighton Beach and also for the meeting of the Queen's County Jockey Club. Francis Trevelyn will be the jockey club steward at Saratoga.

Miss Oliver struck herself in her work and had to be scratched from the first race yesterday. She appeared to have a "cinch" and her owner, Lew Marion, is downcast at his bad luck.

"BREIT" DRANK SODA.

Christ and Quinn Reprimanded the Twirler for Imbibing in Cincinnati.

At the close of the second game in Cincinnati, a St. Louis commercial traveler went to Mr. Von der Ahe and informed him that he had seen Breitenstein, who pitched and lost, take four beers at the bar during the game. Von der Ahe thanked him, but discredited the story. Later Mr. Lloyd, treasurer of the Cincinnatis, called up the bar-tender and he acknowledged that Breitenstein had been drinking.

Later Mr. Von der Ahe and Manager Quinn consulted and then "Breit" was summoned. He at first denied drinking, but finally admitted that he drank during the game, but took only soda water; he acknowledged he had done wrong and promised he would not do so again. Von der Ahe and Quinn gave him a vigorous but friendly talk and the popular pitcher assured them that never again would they have occasion to reprimand him.

VON DER AHE IN DISTRESS.

Eastern Papers Say That the League Will Have to Come to His Rescue.

The Washington Post says: "It is quite probable that the League will have to take some measures to help Von der Ahe out. His peculiar actions lately have very nearly killed the interest of the game in St. Louis. He has sold so many players that, with three men crippled, he has just enough players left to take the nine positions, thus working pitchers every day, making those who are not twirling go into the outfield. He seems to be making no effort to get new men, and the St. Louis papers and patronage are roasting him thoroughly."

KILROY, THE KING.

Terry Says He Was the Trickiest Pitcher of Them All.

"Matt Kilroy, Baltimore's once famous south paw, was the greatest pitcher for catching base runners the game ever knew," says "Adonis" Terry, the Chicago twirler. "To be safe on first after you got there you had to sit on the bag. As sure as you would get two feet away from the base he would nail you. It was a plain case of suicide to have your foot twelve inches from the bag and be leaning toward second while Kilroy had the ball. You were out right there. The little left-hander would never look at the base when he threw to catch a man. His catcher would tip that the man was not sitting on the bag, and he would make his move to pitch. That right leg would go up, around would come that arm, but instead of the ball coming to the plate it would shoot to first. He wouldn't miss his man once in ten, and I don't remember ever seeing him make a wild throw. I have seen him throw nine men out at first in one game in that way."

ONLY ONE ERROR.

The Browns Played a Clean Game, but Could Not Win.

The Browns started out to play a good game of ball with Pittsburg Thursday, but quit after the third inning. Miller went in and caught, notwithstanding his lame left hand. Dowd was charged with the only error of the Browns. The score:

Innings—	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Pittsburg	1	0	1	3	1	0	1	3	—	9
Browns	1	1	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	4

Batteries: Pittsburg—Hart, Sugden and Merritt. Browns—Staley and Miller. Hits—Pittsburg 13, Browns 9. Errors—Pittsburg 2, Browns 1.

Base Ball Notes.

It is reported from Pittsburg than Bonner is disheartened with his continued illluck and is seriously thinking of retiring from the diamond.

George Wood, the famous Philadelphia player, is in Washington out of employment, and in destitute circumstances.

Umpire Galvin is expected to retire before July 1, as he is so afraid of being hit that he will not go close up behind the catcher.

Charley Comiskeys' brother is traveling with the team in the capacity of a treasurer, and Charley's father is ground keeper at St. Paul.

Ed McKean, the Cleveland shortstop, expects to take a trip around the world as soon as the league championship season ends.

Another "Arlie" comes on the baseball tapis. It is Arlington Pond, the new pitcher for the Baltimores, and, of course, he will be just plain "Arlie" to the rooters.

Al Maul is Washington's winning pitcher. He goes in the box every fourth day, and usually manages to hold his opponents down to about six hits. Maul has won nine games and lost four so far.

Griffith, the college pitcher, signed by Cleveland, has joined Elton Chamberlain. The whereabouts of neither of these two Cleveland belongings is known to the Spider management.

Some handy and expressive names of base ball players: Macgillicuddy, Cauliflower, Honeycutt, Colcolough, Hanscome, Nie, Lush, Figgitmier, Hogrinn, Hogriever and Spill.—Chronicle Telegraph.

MORE HEADS.

Chairman Gideon Will Suspend Some Missouri Cyclists for a Year.

Chairman Gideon's next bulletin will contain the names of several Missouri men who will receive a severe sentence for flying in the face of the L. A. W. These men are Orin Smith and A. Lillibridge of Cartersville, C. E. Troutman and Charles Bartlett of Joplin, John Clear and Ed Smoot of Webb City, W. E. Blazier and Harry Alexander of Carthage and John Tine of Columbus.

The offense committed by these wheelmen is riding in unsanctioned races at Webb City, May 30, after being warned. Each man received a year's sentence and will be barred from all tracks during that time.

"B'S" AND "PROS."

Spalding in Consultation With Sanger and Shafer in New York.

There is a temporary lull in the L. A. W. tempest regarding the charges against the class B men. Chairman Gideon has barely taken up the thread of investigation, but the manufacturers are on tiptoe, waiting his decision. A. G. Spalding arrived in New York Thursday and summoned Sanger and Trainer Shafer thither to meet him and discuss the situation.

The only thing that compared with Tom Eck's pleasure when the news of the Sanger-Sims suspension became known was Spalding's surprise. The knowledge that the star man of his team was under discipline, and that the others might also fall into the slough, rattled him considerably. He at once telegraphed Mr. Gideon as follows:

"Papers announce suspension of Sanger. Is it true? If so, what are grounds? Please reply."

Mr. Gideon did reply, in these concise sentences:

"Sanger suspended. Selling prizes. Refuses to defend himself. Have written. Gideon."

Just what course he will pursue, Mr. Spalding is not in a position to say. He will naturally hear the stories of his men and learn from them if it has been a custom, as stated, for Class B men to sell their prizes. Mr. Gideon's letter will also be in evidence by that time, and the interview will probably be an interesting one.

The other Class B men who are under suspicion, but who have thus far escaped discovery or charges, are evidently sawing wood, as nothing has been heard of their intentions. Perhaps the ones who are doing the real heavy thinking parts in the little drama are their employers, the bicycle manufacturers.

When the latter have maturely considered the situation as to whether the Class B riders are as useful to them as professionals, there is likely to be some more sensation in the world on wheels. They have found out already that racing teams are costly affairs, as a staff of five or six men, counting trainers, riders and manager, cost from $1,500 to $2,000 a month.

If the manufacturers will but say the word and preserve their contracts with the men there is not a Class B rider in the business who will not willingly become a professional.

Sanger since his suspension has announced to Chairman Gideon that he would not bother defending himself against his accusers.

CREDITABLE TO MODESTY.

Englishmen Not Sorry Proposed International Athletics Have Collapsed.

LONDON, June 28.—The Standard in an editorial this morning says on the reply of Harvard to the challenge of the Oxford-Cambridge Athletic Committee:

The reason given by the American undergraduates for declining the match is creditable to their modesty. Interesting as the proposed meeting would have been, we are not altogether sorry that the scheme has collapsed. It might have been necessary to defray the expenses of some of our champions and thus convert into a business matter what ought to be merely a recreation. For those possessing means, ample opportunity is provided by the arrangements made between the athletic clubs of London and New York.

TOOK A RECESS UNTIL JULY 9.

Republicans Carry Their Point in the Illinois Legislature.

STORMY SESSIONS HELD.

Republican Report Adopted Declaring That There Will Be a Surplus in the Treasury.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 28.—Stormy sessions were held by houses of the extra session this morning, and things looked rather blue for awhile. Matters cooled off, however, and both branches of the State Legislature decided to take a recess until July 9 at 10 a. m.

Some members in the House attempted to have the members draw no pay during the recess, but this was voted out of order, as the constitution provides for members' salaries during all sessions. The Republicans presented a lengthy report giving their side of the revenue deficiency, and claiming that instead of any deficiency being feared the State would have over $700,000 in the treasury at the end of the ensuing two years, instead of being in debt. A minority report was presented from the Democrats in which it was shown that the State would be in debt over $1,000,000 if no revenue legislation was done at this session. The majority report was adopted, while the minority was thrown into the waste basket. It was decided to have 5,000 copies of each report printed for general distribution and the House adjourned.

In the Senate six bills were introduced calling for revenue arbitration, sleeping car adjustments, abolishment of the State Board of Equalization and a bill taxing butterine. These bills were referred to various committees and the Senate adjourned as above stated.

The feeling now is that some legislation will be transacted when the recess is convened.

DENY ANY DEFICIT.

Action by Republicans Yesterday Contradicting Gov. Altgeld's Statements.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 28.—Investigating the tax levy question has been the occupation of the Republicans so far, and yesterday a conclusion was reached that the tax levy is sufficient, and it will not be increased. As the alleged inadequate tax levy was given by Gov. Altgeld in his message as the principal reason for bringing the Legislature together, the Republican Senators favored adjourning sine die at once. This was bitterly opposed, however, by a number of Republican Representatives led by Col. Merriam, who, however, are favorable to adjourning Tuesday, July 9, as the Fourth of July occurs next week. Merriam said the Legislature must do something on the lines laid down by the Governor.

Gov. Altgeld informed some Democratic members that if adjournment was taken without action on at least some of the subjects named in the call he would immediately reconvene the Legislature and keep doing so until something was accomplished.

At the adjourned meeting of the joint Republican caucus in the afternoon Senator Dunlap presented a lengthy report of the committee appointed to investigate the tax levy. The report is an answer to Gov. Altgeld's statements regarding the State's finances. The following statement of the liabilities and resources of the State for the next two years is made:

"Liabilities incurred by the Thirty-ninth General Assembly—General and special appropriations made by the Thirty-ninth General Assembly, $8,060,000; for school purposes, as provided by law, $2,000,000. Total, $10,060,000. Resources to meet the above liabilities—From tax levy made by Thirty-ninth General Assembly, $5,000,000; from school tax levy, $2,000,000; receipts from miscellaneous sources, as per Auditor's statement of income for 1893-4, under revenue laws in force prior to acts of the Thirty-ninth General Assembly, on the same basis, $1,900,000; revenue from increased fees for licensing corporations, as per revenue act of this General Assembly, $600,000; from the inheritance tax law passed by this General Assembly, $1,000,000. Total, $10,500,000. Balance of resources above liabilities, $440,000. The above statement is for the next two fiscal years.

"In addition to this there will lapse into the Treasury sums amounting to $300,000. Adding this, we have a total balance of $740,000 above liabilities. From the above it will be seen that instead of there being a deficiency in the amount of the resources, as provided for by this General Assembly to meet the liabilities incurred, there will exist in fact a surplus from the estimates made of $740,000 at the end of the two years."

The report contains numerous figures tending to show that these estimates are conservative. It states that nothing this Legislature can do will prevent a deficit before next April, as the taxes on this year's levy will not begin coming in until then.

In conclusion the report, which was unanimously adopted, says:

"The truth is, that Gov. Altgeld, for political purposes, refused to allow the last Democratic General Assembly to make proper provision for the insane of the State and many other necessary improvements in various State institutions, not because they were not demanded by the people and very much needed, but for the purpose of carrying into effect his false pretenses of economy. After they had made their appropriations and levy, which was itself insufficient to meet the amount of their appropriations, he again refuses to make a tax rate sufficient to raise even the amount of the levy made by the Thirty-eighth General Assembly. There could have been no other reason for this refusal to make the rate sufficiently high to raise the sum levied, except a political reason, and that political reason was that he desired to tell the people of the State of Illinois, as he did do, how much less the rate of taxation was under his administration than it had been under former Republican administrations, hoping thereby to deceive the people of the State in this matter as he has been continually trying to do in other matters and thereby succeeded in carrying the election in 1894. From the record he has made your committee cannot understand his method of financiering, and we submit that the good name and credit of this great and wealthy State should not thus be trifled with by a Governor, either for partisan nor for any other purposes.

"Your committee believe and charge the fact to be, that so far as relates to an increased tax levy he has called this extraordinary session of the General Assembly together at this time and in this manner for the sole and only purpose of trying to make political capital, and for the purpose of further trying to deceive the people of this great commonwealth and aid his campaign for 1896.

"In view of all these facts your committee believe that there is no occasion for an increase in the tax levy, and recommend that no further action be taken upon that subject."

The Democratic members of the House decided at their caucus to prepare an address to the people of the State charging that the Republican acting Speaker was playing tyrant over Democratic Representatives and preventing legislation. A committee was appointed to prepare the address and a committee was also appointed to get up an address and resolution on the tax levy to substitute for any resolutions the Republicans might offer on the subject.

Representative Merritt, the Democratic member of the House committee appointed to investigate the tax levy, in his minority report says that there will be a deficit of $1,184,203, and recommends an increase of the tax levy to that extent.

The Democratic Senators decided to endeavor to secure a continuous session until the legislation desired by the Governor is enacted.

SIMMS IN TROUBLE.

May Be Severely Punished for Driving a Horse to Death.

LONDON, June 28.—If certain reports turn out to be correct, and there seems to be no good reason for doubting them, Mr. Richard Croker's colored Jockey, Willie Simms, is liable to find himself in the hottest kind of water. As cabled on Saturday last, Simms has been amusing himself considerably at Newmarket, and on Monday, June 17, he wagered he would drive a trotter from Newmarket to Cambridge and return within an hour, a total distance of about twenty-six miles. Simms started in a sulky with a companion, and made Cambridge in quick time. But when nearing Newmarket on the return trip the horse dropped dead, and it is probable that Simms will be arrested and most severely punished as a result of an investigation into the affair, which the officers of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, began to-day. The society's special officer has also been instructed to find out if the companion of Simms in his drive was Mr. Croker himself, and if this should turn out to be the case, there may be serious trouble in store for Mr. Croker. The action of the R. S. P. S. A. was due to Jerome K. Jerome and Mr. Labouchere. The latter says in Truth: "After reading an account of the performance I expected to announce that Simms had been fined the heaviest penalty for such diabolical conduct. No punishment is too bad for a man who would flog a horse to death, and I would cheerfully see Simms flogged along the high road and made to run until he dropped dead." Mr. Labouchere's article concluded with calling upon the R. S. P. C. A. to ly investigate the matter.

FOUL PLAY CHARGED.

A Wealthy Planter's Young Son Shot as a Burglar.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex., June 28.—J. S. Dickerson, a jeweler at 548 Elm street, killed a 16-year-old boy about 3 o'clock this morning, who, he claims, was a burglar. Dickerson sleeps in his store, and says he was aroused by a noise at the front show window. The shot awakened sleeping occupants of adjoining buildings, but not in time for any of them to see any part of the tragedy. Police officers were on the scene soon, and the body was taken to an undrtaker's. It was identified as that of John F. Reeves, son of a rich planter of Chico, in Wise County. The dead boy and his 13-year-old brother, Tobe Reeves, were witnesses in the Federal Court against William Hauge, charged with counterfeiting silver coin, and had been in Dallas several days. Friends of the Reeves family declare that the boy was not a burglar, but that some conspiracy led him to where he was killed to get him out of the way as a witness. Reeves was found dead in the street 150 yards from Dickerson's broken show window. A 38-caliber bullet had entered the left side of his neck and severed the jugular vein. Several pistols and articles of jewelry were picked up on either side of the streak of blood between Dickerson's store and the corpse. The dead boy's father will arrive to-night. The Reeves family, it is claimed, will press investigation on the theory of conspiracy and foul play.

THEY PRAYED AT SUNRISE.

Epworth Leaguers on the Bluff of Lookout Mountain.

THERE WERE 2,500 PRESENT.

Delegates from Maine to California Hold an Experience Meeting at Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 28.—The second day's session of the Epworth League Conference was opened this morning with a "sunrise prayer meeting" on the bluff of Lookout Mountain in front of Lookout Inn. When the sun first made its appearance from behind the mountains in the distance there were congregated on the bluff and mountain fully 2,500 delegates from Maine to California. The exercises were led by Rev. George R. Stewart, who is associated with Sam Jones, the Evangelist.

Following the exercises a wonderful experience meeting was held, in which delegates from nearly every State in the Union participated. During the recital of the experiences several of the delegates became so impressed with the fervor of the occasion that they shouted.

In spite of the vast crowd now there, Chattanooga was so well prepared for the coming entertainment of the visitors that not one-fifth of her entertaining capacity has been exhausted. The residents report that they are not crowded in the least. This fact will be of interest, in view of the approaching date for the Park dedication.

COTTON COMPRESSES.

Arrangements for a Low Rate and Heavy Shipments.

Three months ago the railway companies pledged themselves to L. L. Prince, chairman of the Transportation Committee, that if the St. Louis Cotton Compress Co. would compress its cotton in Arkansas, they would make the St. Louis rate the same as the St. Louis proportion of the through rate to the sea coast.

The Compress company decided to accept the offer on a guarantee from the railroads. Options were secured on the Hope, Ark., press and others. The former is to be enlarged, and a chain of compresses is to be built throughout the State of Arkansas.

All the cotton of that State will be compressed before shipment North and East, making St. Louis the concentrating storehouse for all the cotton of the Southwest. Under the new arrangement, St. Louis, which has heretofore handled an aggregate of 150,000 bales of cotton will now handle 600,000 yearly.

The compress at Hope alone will be able to handle sufficient cotton to pay the interest of the company's bonds.

Jennie Connors is in the Third District holdover on a charge of disturbing the peace. She is only 16 years of age, but she is very, very tough. She has been running away from home for several years and has twice been in the Home of the Good Shepherd.

When her mother, who lives at 1515 North Third street, heard of Jennie's latest escapade, she had William Clark, 19 years of age, and as tough as the girl, arrested for enticing her away from home for immoral purposes. Jennie says that Clark is entirely blameless, but the police will put the charges made by Mrs. Connors against him on general principles. He is in the holdover now.

The girl was taken to the Home of the Good Shepherd Friday morning, but was refused admittance on the ground that she is incorrigible. She will be turned over to her mother, but she says she has no intention of quitting her evil ways and will leave home for good as soon as she is 18.

INVESTIGATING THE CASE.

An Insured Child Died Without Medical Attendance.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 28.—The Coroner is investigating the mysterious death of a 7-year-old girl, the daughter of Mrs. Bertha Ader. The girl died unattended by a physician and in a way suggesting poison. The girl's life was insured for $150 in an insurance company which makes a specialty of children. Mrs. Ader, who is now Mrs. Wm. Hopp, has had three husbands since December. The first husband, Jacob Ader, died last January, and a few weeks later a 5-year-old child died. Both were insured in the same company. The widow shortly after married Edward Gray, who proved to be addicted to drink. She soon secured a divorce, and a short time ago married Wm. Hopp.

THE MARKETS.

ST. LOUIS, June 28.

A crop expert now traveling through the Northwest for a St. Louis grain house writes from Fargo, N. D.: Prospects for wheat throughout Red River Valley very flattering. The stand is thick; straw large, but not too much so. Showers have been frequent, but the ground has taken up the rain without injury to wheat. Nights have been cool and days moderately warm—just the conditions to make a splendid crop, and that is what it has done. Outside the valley the conditions are perfect. Early-sown has commenced to head out, the heads long. Only need favorable weather to make a bumper crop. Estimates on the acreage are 10 to 33 per cent less than last year. I think 15 per cent would be conservative estimate.

Threshing returns received to-day run about the same as those given in this column yesterday, with few exceptions. Evansville, Ind., reports a 12½-bu yield of good quality and Boone County, Missouri, places it at about 20 bu. Southeast Missouri and Southern Illinois send in returns indicating around 20 bu, the range being 17 to 25 bu. Central Illinois returns are all low. About the worst are Bunker Hill, Ill., of 2½ to 3 bu, where 12 to 15 had been expected, and Trenton, Ill., 75 bu off 120 acres. The quality of these small fields is generally rejected to No. 4.

The weather map showed frosts last night in the Northwest and this morning's advices were of general, though light frosts, extending as far South as Southern Minnesota and into South Dakota. It is not believed any damage was inflicted upon the crops.

Topeka, Kan.—Reports not encouraging from counties along southern boundary of Kansas, hot winds having damaged wheat and chinch bugs corn. In the Cherokee Strip whole fields of corn were cooked by hot winds.

Liverpool receipts wheat past three days 595,000 bu. 30,000 bu of which from this country, and 130,000 bu corn.

Chicago elevators containing 5,000,000 bu wheat, 500,000 bu corn and 300,000 bu oats have been declared irregular.

Lexington, Ky., reports great damage to wheat this week by black rust.

Berlin cable says wheat 2c lower on liquidation. Weather warm and bright.

In the Cape Girardeau districts there has been so much rain that the fields cannot be worked, and considerable uncut wheat is said to have fallen to the ground.

Exports flour and wheat for week expected to be about 2,400,000 bu.

Isn't it about time to change the wheat and corn dials to September.

To-morrow's Exchange session will continue to 1:15 p. m., as it is the last day of the month.

ON 'CHANGE.

WHEAT—Buyers were plentiful at ⅛c decline when the market opened, holding firm for a short time, during which July bid up ⅝c, so scarce were sellers of that option, September only improving ⅛c. A relapse shortly followed and from this there was no recovery subsequently. The lower prices went the more heavy and depressed became the market and the more wheat came out for sale. In all there was 2c decline from the top rates and, though rallying slightly late, closed weak with sellers of September 1½c below yesterday. July showed most strength late and closed about 1c lower.

The predicted frosts in the Northwest materialized all right enough, but they were too light to be regarded with alarm, and no apprehensions of damage to spring wheat appeared to be felt. Rains up North and in quite an extended area of winter wheat belt were, though, and led to free buying at the opening. But some more of those 20 bu. to the acre threshing returns were received and made a great deal of, the poor yields of poor quality, which were also plentiful, being comparatively not in it with the high yields. The fact, too, that about 10,000 bu. new wheat was received here, coming mainly from the lower river, impressed the trade, and, as outside markets showed weakness, the effect was to check the early buying, increase the offerings and cause a relapse in price. The tenor of foreign advices was adverse, Liverpool and London cables being dull and easier and Berlin 2c lower. New York reported foreigners selling there. A discouraging feature, too, were the four ports' clearances of only 27,700 pkgs flour and 600 bu. wheat. Receipts were light everywhere—35,000 bu. winter wheat at Western markets and 159 cars spring in the Northwest, against 61,000 bu. and 220 cars one year ago.

Latest cables were also weak and lower and domestic markets declining. The great depression in the local market for cash, especially new, had a bad effect, also, and weakness reigned to the close.

Futures—July sold early at 72½c to 72¼c and 72⅜c was bid, but then sold off to 70⅝c, closing at 71⅛c. Sept. opened at 72c and sold to 72¼c to 70¼c, closing at 70⅝c sellers.

Spot grades—Lower again. On call No. 2 red offered regular at 72¼c, with 71½c bid for United; No. 3 red regular at 67½c, bid 66c; No. 4 winter at 65c; no bid.

Samples—Received, 4,038 sks, 9 cars local, 4 cars through. New showed an appreciable increase in offerings, most of the sacked and 5 of the cars being this year's crop. The sacked came from lower river territory and was generally tough, musty, smutty and cockled, a few lots being good enough to grade No. 2. Except a little choice dry that brought 72c, nowhere near a satisfactory bid could be drawn and balance of offerings were ordered dumped on grade. Such, too, was the case with several car lots. Sales were 67c for shrunken and bleached from Indian Territory this side and 68c for bleached and blighted from Illinois E. track and smutty and tough from S. E. Mo. track this side. All these prices were much lower than obtainable yesterday. Old was better sustained in value, small sacked lots choice selling at 76c (½c decline), car lots No. 2 E. track and ungraded this side at 74c.

CORN—As those Northwestern frosts could hardly have done any damage and, as wheat was not strong enough to act as a support, the market opened weak and sold ⅝@½c lower. On basis of most crop news the situation was bearish, but receipts were so small—123,000 bu. at all Western markets, against 316,000 one year ago—and prospects so slim for any increase in the near future, that there was no particular pressure to sell. Foreign markets were dull and ½d cut off the price at Liverpool, and the day's clearances only 50,000 bu. from four ports.

There was little reaction to the market at any time, and the close was near the bottom.

Futures—July sold at 43⅝c to 43⅝c and 43½c asked at close. Sept sold at 45⅝c to 45c and 45⅛c bid at close.

Spot grades—Lower. On call only a single car lot demand, No. 2 selling in Central at 43⅝c, but regular offered at 43¼c and 5,000 bu E. side at 43½c without a bid. No. 3 offered at 43c; no bid. No white grades offered or bid for.

Samples—Received, 296 sks local, 2 cars through. Again were the offerings small and this gave sellers backbone, though no enlarged demand was seen. Better prices, however, were obtained for sacked lots, yellow and white selling at 45c and choice St. Charles white at 46½c. Skd lots on orders 50@51c for mixed.

OATS—The general depression prevalent in all grain markets in oats and a further decline was recorded, principally in September, which was freely offered and sold ⅝c lower.

Futures—July sold late at 24c and September at 24c to 23½c.

Spot grades—None offered on call, where 24⅜c best bid for No. 2 E. side.

Samples—Received, 1,200 sks 38 cars local. Sellers endeavored to obtain steady prices, but found the buyers few on that basis, though at ¼@½c decline there was fair buying by local traders. THE BRIM OF A HAT WAS IN HER WAY.

A Wise Girl Will Not Surprise Her Fiance at a Summer Resort.

Greta's glance wandered out on the sunlit ocean.

"I have never," said she, "spent the summer any place—that is, any nice place, where there was not a 'Devil's' something and a 'Lover's' something."

"There are likely to be those two things wherever you go," and the man at her side gave a comprehensive glance at the lavender-gowned figure. She was leaning one hand on the railing of the piazza and swinging in the other her tennis racquet.

"Pouf!" she retorted, with a pout that had won her a half-dozen proposals in its time. "You condescend to be clever, even in this warm weather."

He watched the pout amusedly and did not wonder that Mme. Rumor credited her with four summer engagements. Then he lit a cigarette without answering her.

"You always condescend, whatever you do," Greta continued. "I suppose it is because you are tall and can curl your lip—so." She did it and Clinton took a long breath.

"It is bad breeding, if I do," Clinton observed.

She laughed, with a glimpse of even teeth. "You ill-bred? Hardly. I remember when I first saw you in New York you had that same air about you—a critical survey. I wondered then what your first name was and I can remember my delight quite well when Mrs. Allyson-Forth called you 'Deah Rex.' Rex is a very good name for you."

"I am glad you like it. It is an abbreviation of Wrexford; my mother was a Wrexford. You never will call me by the name you were so delighted with. Why?"

"Oh, because."

"I dare say—the reason for which you do most things."

She nodded and he smoked on contemplatively, wondering why her conversation always seemed clever, when it was really only personal. Perhaps that was the reason.

"I wish," and he looked up at the white tam o' shanter on her head, with its lavender band and the Yale pin in front, "I wish you would not wear that cap."

Her eyelids widened. "Why?" she demanded.

He hesitated. One could say many daring things to her, but there was always the chance of a curt dismissal.

"Tell me why," she insisted.

"Because—the girls all say that you wear it—because—a hat brim would be in the way."

"In—the way? I do not understand." Her eyes rested on his with charming innocence in their blueness.

He brushed off his white coat sleeve meditatively. He knew she was staring at him and was quite conscious how well he looked in his suit of tennis flannel. A slow crimson was stealing into her face; she had worn that tam o' shanter when they went rowing the other night and came suddenly upon Isabel and her brother.

"I wish you would explain," she said, hotly.

"I do not understand, myself," composedly.

"Oh, very well, then. I shall certainly continue to wear over it wherever and whenever I please."

He saw her send a wrathful glance at the group of girls, watching them from the end of the piazza.

"Do you know why they said it?" she continued.

"Tell me," he prompted.

"Because they are all frightfully jealous of me, whenever you are with me—since you are about the nicest man here and have a yacht."

"Ah!" Clinton puffed his cigarette leisurely and thought how alike all girls were at a seaside hotel. He wondered what Greta would do when she met Amy and learned that he was to marry Amy in November. Three days more and Amy and her mother would join his party; three days only to do as he pleased with his time.

A slight frown came between his eyebrows.

"Are you going to stay on this hot porch all afternoon?" he queried, irritably.

"I told you I would show you the Devil's Basin if you wanted to see it."

"Where is it?"

"On the south shore. We can row around, if you feel lazy."

"I am not lazy, but after that game of tennis I think a row would be pleasanter."

"Yes," commented Greta—all the girls would have the benefit of it—"let us row there. It is really quite a picturesque sort of cave, and the tennis has tired my ankle so that I would rather not walk."

"What is the matter with your ankle?"

"I broke it last summer at Bar Harbor and it has been very easy to hurt ever since."

It gave him an excuse, that he did not neglect, to look down at the small white ankle with its white canvas slipper.

They strolled slowly down the veranda to the steps, where Greta paused and said, quickly, "Wait a moment," and turned to the group of observant girls.

"Isabel," she murmured sweetly, "will you take care of my racquet for me? We are going to Devil's Basin and I don't want to bother to take it upstairs, because if I do mamma will want me to change my tam o' shanter for a hat—and you know a hat is always in my way."

"You little minx," observed Clinton, as he put up her lavender parasol, "did you see the way Miss Mabel looked at you when you handed her your racquet?"

"M', h'm," and Greta laughed softly. "I do that often to her. Was it not she who told you that I broke my ankle last year just to get Dickey Mason to propose to me?"

"I didn't tell you that she did."

"No, but somebody else told me."

"Did Dick acquit himself properly?"

"He was not even there. I was with one of the girls, and, besides, I wouldn't hurt my ankle for—for even you."

He untied the boat from its ring in the pier, and drew it up to the steps that the receding tide had left slippery with seaweed.

"Be careful there with your ankle," he said, as he took her hand and guided her safely to the stern seat, in which lay several green and gold cushions made by feminine fingers.

The boat under his long, even stroke rounded the point, leaving the hotel and the beach behind them.

"I am so glad," said Clinton, "that you do not trail your hand in the water when you are rowing."

"I am not rowing," demurely. "I couldn't with my hand in the water. I don't do it because the men always think you are trying to show off either your hands or your rings."

He remembered how Amy always let her hands drag in the water, with little shrieks whenever they encountered seaweed or other stray objects. Then he resolutely put the thought of Amy behind him; he intended to enjoy the afternoon.

"I sometimes think," the little maid in the stern was saying, with her pretty eyes on his oars, "that 'feathering' is an affectation."

"No, I think you are mistaken. When the oar blade, which has to be at right angles to the surface of the water to propel the boat, comes up it catches the wind less easily when it is feathered. In a race it supports the shells they almost always use and prevents crabs."

"I am convinced," she smiled; "at any rate, it looks well."

"How feminine!" But his answering glance was approving.

"Thank you. I do not ape the masculine."

"Miss Isabel does and it is not unattractive," he answered, teasingly.

"So does her best fried, Amy Lanston, and in her it is unattractive."

Clinton caught his breath. "Do you know Amy Lanston?"

"Very slightly." Greta idly watched the afternoon steamer in the distance, bringing to the island the 3 o'clock mail and the passengers from Portland.

"Miss Lanston," she said, "is coming to the island this afternoon, with her mother. Isabel is quite excited."

"What!" Clinton's eyes had caught a curious gleam in them.

"Yes," continued Greta, still watching the steamer. "Isabel read us a part of Miss Lanston's letter this morning. Her 'dearest Amy' was coming two or three days earlier than she had at first intended in order to surprise somebody. I do not know who, and Isabel would not tell—some man, I fancy."

Clinton's lips compressed themselves into a narrow line of grim determination and the boat speed on through waves sparkling into a thousand shades of blue, away from the incoming steamer and from Amy.

With a faint, pervading roar, the waves in long, green curves dashed persistently up onto the dull, brown granite, flinging far up the cliffs flecks of foam that lay an instant on their rough resting place and then crept back again to the ocean.

A little further to the south the cliffs sank almost to the level of the high tide, then rose suddenly into an irregular hollow whose dark shadows and sharp rock-lined bottom, often slippery with water, bore the name "Devil's Basin."

On a long, broken mass of granite sat Greta, while the man beside her looked down at her dubiously.

"I cannot go another step," she moaned. "Oh, it hurts so," and, bending down, she rubbed her swollen ankle gently.

"You ought not to have walked a step after you slipped," he answered, sternly. "You would not take my advice."

"I hate advice," plaintively, "and I thought I could reach the boat, but these rocks are so slippery and there are so many of them."

"You might as well have let me carry you in the first place," determinedly.

"I—I don't want you to," and she stood up bravely.

He watched her grimly, saw her take a step and then falter, another step and still another, then a low sound of pain broke from her and she swayed slightly.

In an instant his arms had closed around her. He lifted her gently in them and moved carefully over the rock pathway. She lay passive a few minutes, wondering if she were very heavy and how much further it was to the boat.

How strong he was and how gentle. She turned her head over on his shoulder. "I am so glad," she murmured, "that I wore my tam-o'-shanter. A hat-brim would have been in the way."

With an irrepressible smile he looked down at the fluffy hair, with its saucy cap so close to his face; and, looking, he forgot the precariousness of his pathway. There was a sudden slip, and Clinton went down onto his knees on the wet rocks. He held his lovely burden closer and staggered to his feet, with a mental comment on his awkwardness that was not polite.

"I shall not look at you again; you are worse than pride to provoke falling," he said to her when he had caught his breath, and she laughed with pleasure.

"Put me down, then."

"Not I. I do not surrender my heart's desire so easily."

He would have liked to look at her face, for she did not answer, but his sore, wet knees warned him not to.

When at last they reached the boat it was a very breathless man who put her gently among the pillows.

"Thank you so much," she murmured. "I hope you are not exhausted. This is the first time I have been glad to be small."

Her grateful glance lingered a moment on his face and then surveyed the tall figure that had carried her so carefully. He looked down for a second at the knees of his trousers; then their eyes met and they both laughed. On the white tennis flannel were two great black spots, deep and immovable.

"Do—do they hurt?" she asked, breathlessly.

"No. They only feel a little damp."

"I shall say you proposed," she smiled.

"Did you refuse me or accept me?"

"I will tell you to-morrow."

* * * * * * *

"And so Amy has broken her engagement. Do tell us why, Isabel."

"Because," and Isabel's voice sounded ominous; "because several things were not in the way and several others were."

"Oh, don't leave out his white tennis suit, it was surely an important factor. Were you there, Harriet, when he returned with the fact of his kneeling so evident?"

"We were all there. It was immense. Amy had come down stairs got up regardless, to surprise. You ought to have seen her face when she saw Mr. Clinton come up the steps."

"Any girl ought to know better than to surprise a man at a summer resort. Do you think Greta knew of his engagement?"

"Nobody knows. Do you think she refused him? That is the question."

"I heard her call him 'Rex' last night."

"You did? What do you think, Isabel?"

"Nothing," moodily.

"Well," Harriet averred, "you ought to be able to think something about it. If your brother saw Greta's tam-o'-shanter hung up by a lavender ribbon in Mr. Clinton's room it looks like—"

"Anything you choose."

VIGILANTES ACQUITTED.

Found Not Guilty of Having Lynched Defaulting Treasurer Scott.

OMAHA, Neb., June 27.—A special to the Bee from Butte, Neb., says: The famous Barrett Scott murder case was concluded to-day by the acquittal of Mullihan, Elliott and Harris, the three vigilantes who were alleged to have hanged the defaulting ex-Treasurer of Holt County, Jan. 1, 1895. This is the final chapter in one of the most sensational affairs in the criminal history of the West.

Scott, while Treasurer of Holt County, stole $100,000 and fled to Mexico. He was extradited and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years. Influential political friends, it was charged, prevented his incarceration in the penitentiary, and while enjoying his freedom pending the Supreme Court's action he was taken from his buggy by a dozen masked men and hanged. It was alleged to be the work of the old vigilantes, who flourished in Northeast Nebraska in the pioneer days.

TO LYNCH ALDERMEN.

Citizens of Denver Had a Rope for Their Assemblymen.

DENVER, Colo., June 28.—The fight for an independent water service or a reduction of the prices exacted for the present service, which was made an issue of the spring election, culminated last evening in the passage of an ordinance submitted in the interest of the Union Water Co.

For eight hours the Aldermen sat in the council chamber in front of an indignant multitude of citizens who threatened them with lynching if they carried out the plan contemplated for the passage of the ordinance. A force of fifty policemen and a score of city detectives were in the room, and they were expected to interpose if it came to the worst. A rope was shown by the crowd, and its use was called for when Alderman Emery changed his vote from the side of the tax-payers to that of the water company.

There was a rush to the rail between the crowd and the Aldermen, but one of the citizens' representatives in the meeting jumped on a chair and begged the crowd to allow the proceedings to go on in an orderly fashion.

The crowd hooted, and for a time there seemed no possibility of holding the crowd back from executing its vengeance on Emery.

Alderman Leet, one of the minority, then addressed the crowd, assuring them it would be impossible for the Aldermen to pass the ordinance at the meeting so that it would be effective, and told them that it would have to go to the Board of Supervisors and then to the Mayor before it would become a law.

Alderman Ames next addressed the crowd, and said they had his word that the water bill would not receive Emery's vote when it came to final passage. Ames guaranteed that his words were not for the purpose of misleading anyone, for he felt as seriously for the welfare of the city as any one in the lobby. The address appealed to the advancing force, and as his remarks reached the outer circle there was a pause. Some one demanded when they would settle it and the answer came that there would be another session before anything definite was determined. The rebellious element began to melt away, and the Council was permitted to go ahead with the transaction of business.

Just before adjournment, however, the Council passed the obnoxious ordinance.

The ordinance passed grants a reduction of only 15 per cent on the schedule of water rates now in force. The measure has a clause which makes the rates thus fixed a burden on the people for fifteen years. Besides, it is claimed, that the reduction of 15 per cent is not one-half what the public is entitled to under the company's contract, which calls for a reduction this year to the average of the rates charged in Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

The bill passed by a vote of 8 to 6. Almost the entire police force of Denver was employed last night in guarding the houses of the eight Aldermen who voted for it, as they feared violence from their constituents. Although feeling runs very high and much harsh talk is heard, no overt acts against the Aldermen have yet been committed.

A $2,000,000 BLAZE.

San Francisco Visited by a Most Destructive Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 28.—Fire started in the rear of the San Francisco box factory at Fifth and Bryant streets about 6 o'clock last evening, and in a few minutes the entire west end of the block bounded by Brannon and Bryant streets was in flames. The Spring Valley Water Works, Karbell Bros.' box factory, H. Washburn's stable, G. W. Phelan's carriage factory and J. Horstmann's soda factory were destroyed. At 6:45 o'clock the block bounded by Fourth, Fifth, Brannon and Bryant streets was in ashes, and at 8:30 the unchecked flames had reduced to ruins the block bounded by Fourth, Fifth, Bluxom and Brannon streets. The Fire Department and the employes of the Southern Pacific company fought the flames with might and main, but the water was changed to steam before the current reached the blaze. Only the water tower had a stream strong enough to resist the heat. The fire reached the Overland Transfer Co.'s freight house and the hardware storehouse of Baker & Hamilton. These brick buildings impeded the course of the flame, but it worked around them to the yards. Several wool warehouses were burned, but the enormous brick winery of Lachman & Co., containing 1,000,000 gallons of wine, proved another obstacle to the fire. Kohler & Von Bergen's winery was also threatened, and the flames came within 300 feet of the railroad yards and offices, but at 9:30 o'clock the wind shifted and drove the flames back over the burned area. The change in the wind, the brick wineries and the railroad yards enabled the firemen to get control of the flames. Over 100 families have lost their homes and all they possessed, and one person, Miss Gilroy, while attempting to save some of her belongings, was covered with blazing oil and burned to death.

Many persons were injured by falling walls and flying timbers.

The property loss is estimated at $2,000,000, and some estimates place it at $3,000,000.

The trolley wires were a cause of annoyance. The heat warped the iron posts and the live wires dropped.

Texas has built more new mileage than any other State, having added 78 miles. Georgia, with 65 miles of new track and Arizona with 64, come very close. These States are followed by Pennsylvania, with 47 miles; North Carolina, with 33 miles; Ohio, with 27; California with 22, and New York with 21 miles.

SHE PAID FOR THE GOWN.

Justice Was Not Blind, and Mrs. Bracken Was So Pretty.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Mrs. Bracken of West Ninety-third street was sued before Justice Steiner for $75, the price of a gown made for her by Haas Bros. and rejected by her as a misfit. The technicalities of the case were too many for the Judge, who finally persuaded the lady to try on the dress. She did so and then returned to court. She is a very pretty woman, and Justice Steiner at once gave judgment against her because she looked so sweet in it.

IRON MEN AGREE.

The Scale Adopted at the Cleveland Convention Is Accepted.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 28.—At 1:30 this morning the conference between the iron manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association Conference Committee, which was in session from 1:30 yesterday afternoon, came to an end. It was finally agreed that the scale adopted at the recent Cleveland convention should be accepted. This includes a $4 a ton rate for puddling on a card rate of 1 1-10 cents, the increase to be 25 cents for each one-tenth increase in the card rate up to 1½ on the present minimum, which would make the rate $5 a ton at a 1½ card rate on selling price per pound.

THE NEW GUN.

Supplying the United States Army With Improved Weapons.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The Ordnance Department of the army is making good progress in the work of constructing the small bore rifles at the Springfield Armory. The entire infantry arm of the service has already been supplied with the new weapon, the artillery branch is now being supplied and the work of making the carbine for the use of the cavalry is well under way. It is fully expected that the entire United States army will be equipped before next winter. Then the Ordnance Department will turn its attention to supplying the militia of the States, and the old Springfield rifle will be retired as fast as the armory can replace them with new guns. The militia must pay for their own weapons out of the appropriations alloted to the respective States from the general fund set apart annually for military equipment, and as most of them have already exhausted their quota for this year they will be obliged to wait until Congress makes further provision before ordering the new guns.
